Barker Favors Allowing Ships To Go To Belligerent Ports

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Legislative leaders reported today they had agreed that neutrality legislation to be introduced in the House tomorrow—following a message from President Roosevelt—would be confined to permitting American merchant ships to carry arms.

Those who attended a White House conference said it was agreed that such legislation could be sent through the House before the end of next week.

It was said reliably, however, that the president, Secretary of State Hull and Harry L. Hopkins, the lease-lend chieftain, still were hopeful that Congress eventually would also amend the existing law to lift the present prohibition against American ships traveling to belligerent ports or designated combat areas.

Hopkins, who had been reported taking the lead in an effort to have the law revised to permit the arming of ships and to allow them to travel anywhere, was said to have expressed disappointment at the decision reached at today's conference.

One of those who attended the meeting told reporters that if the legislation providing for arming ships went through the House by a substantial majority, it was possible that the Senate foreign relations committee would consider broadening the measure to eliminate the restrictions on ship movements.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the majority leader, told reporters he could not say in advance what the message would contain or whether it would ask both the arming of mer-

House Approves Huge Lease Appropriation

Says Production Not To Point Of Assuring Defeat Of Axis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The House appropriations committee approved a $5,985,000,000 lend-lease appropriation today with the statement that production of munitions has not yet reached the point where defeat of axis powers was assured.

The committee reported to congress that almost all of the huge new fund could be obligated by next March 1 and that delivery of material could be completed not later than June 30, 1943.

And then, with publication of voluminous hearings on the appropriation, the members presented the first, over-all picture of the lend-lease program which began with a $7,000,000,000 appropriation last spring.

They asserted that production necessarily was slow at first; that there had been no abuses in putting the dollars to work; that the new fund was imperatively necessary.

"Munitions superiority must be achieved to insure the defeat of the axis," the committee report said. "Production in the countries opposed to the axis has not reached the point at this time to achieve this. * * *

JURY MOVES TO PLACE AIRPORT IN CLASS FOUR

Parish Will Purchase 500 Additional Acres For Selman Field

CAA WILL GIVE AID

Government To Spend $388,000 On Improvements Of Landing Site

The Ouachita parish police jury at its regular monthly session here Wednesday took steps to place Selman field in the Class four airport group—highest rating given a field by the Civil Aeronautics authority—with the purchase of approximately 500 additional acres for the field.

The CAA, it was announced at the meeting, has designated improvement of the field as necessary for national defense and, following a tentative survey to determine what improvements are necessary to place the field in Class four, has agreed to spend $388,000 on improvements.

The parish, however, must first secure title to the 500 acres necessary for proper expansion of the field and it was the first definite step in this direction which the police jurors unanimously approved Wednesday.

After explanation of the proper procedure by District Attorney Frank V. Hawthorne, the jury voted to ask the state bond and tax board for permission to issue certificates of indebtedness in the amount of $135,000, payable over a five-year period and bearing interest not to exceed two per cent, for purchase of the acreage.

Robert Fennell, who owns 220 acres of the land needed for expansion, will accept the certificates of indebtedness in payment for his property it was explained to the jury. The Bap-

Plight Of Red Armies In South Also Appears More Desperate

FIGHTING FIERCELY

Soviet Paper Says Nazis Will Fail In 'Mad Beast' Drive

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The German thrust to the Sea of Azov has cut off the retreat of the Russian Ninth army and many Soviet divisions trying to withdraw toward Rostov face annihilation, a special communique from Adolf Hitler's headquarters announced tonight.

(By Associated Press)

German armies storming toward Moscow in a great new offensive have breached Soviet defense lines trapped several Red armies and are now fighting a vast battle of annihilation only 125 miles from the Russian capital itself, Adolf Hitler's high command reported today.

Thus sorely beset, the Russians openly urged Britain to attack Germany from the rear with an invasion of the continent.

Red Fleet, Soviet navy newspaper, estimated that the Germans had left only 25 to 30 weak divisions—perhaps 375,000 to 450,000 troops—in France, with little artillery and few planes.

"The British empire now has the possibility of taking the initiative into its hands, dealing destructive blows against the common foe of mankind, the Hitler Fascists," said the Soviet magazine, Bolshevik.

In the south, too, the plight of the Russians appeared to be growing more desperate by the hour.

Nazi military dispatches said the entire south wing of the Soviet army had been broken by a German drive which has already engulfed Ossipenko and Mariupol, on the Sea of Azov, and is threatening the Don river port of Rostov, gateway to the rich Caucasian oil fields.

German battle flags were reported within 100 miles of Rostov after a 450-mile advance from the Prut river boundary between Rumania and Russia where the Nazi onslaught started 15 weeks ago.

Soviet reports, acknowledging that the Germans had won some initial advantage as the war's mightiest battle raged toward a climax on the

Germans Build Dummy City To Fool Russians

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 8.—(AP)—American travelers arriving from Rumania reported today that the Germans had built a "doll house city of Ploesti" about 10 miles outside the real Ploesti, important oil refining center, to mislead Russian bombers trying to destroy the refineries.

The fake city, they said, was on a scale of one-third the area of the actual city and stood only about three feet high.

It is complete to the last detail with every refinery and all the chief buildings represented, with an accurate street plan, and even electric lights which may be left burning during the night to attract the Russian planes.

There is a miniature railroad with tracks to catch the moonbeams.

Model oil storage tanks can be set afire whenever a bomb lands nearby, the Americans said, to convince attacking fliers that they had scored against an actual target.

From the air the whole thing is so deceptive that Ploesti itself has not

TURKEY IS NEAR CHROMIUM DEAL WITH GERMANY

Nazis Virtually Promised Half Of This Vital Product After 1942

ANKARA, Turkey, Oct. 8.—(AP)—A German diplomatic offensive aimed at breaking the British-American hold on Turkey's chromium supply has resulted in virtual agreement on a deal whereby Germany will get at least half Turkey's exports of this war-vital product after 1942, diplomatic sources said today.

In return, Germany has promised to begin immediate delivery of about $15,000,000 worth of military equipment to Turkey, these sources declared.

Reports that an agreement to this effect was about to be signed, perhaps today, produced a flurry of activity yesterday on the part of both British and United States diplomats.

Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen and J. V. A. MacMurray, the British and American ambassadors, hastened to the Turkish foreign office, where they were said to have warned that such a move by Turkey would cause the worst possible reaction in London and Washington.

MacMurray was reported to have reminded the Turkish government that as one of the nations whose defense is necessary to the defense of United States interests, Turkey could rely upon American aid under the lease-lend act.

A Turkish agreement to deliver chromium to Germany in 1943, just at the time when American arms production would be reaching its peak and chromium would be needed most urgently, could only have an unwelcome reception in Washington, Mac-

PROPAGANDIST FOR HITLER IN U. S. ARRESTED

George Viereck, Editor, Indicted For Withholding Information

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Agents of the federal bureau of investigation today arrested George Sylvester Viereck, 56, on a charge of withholding information when he registered with the state department as an agent of a foreign power.

Viereck, a naturalized American who once acknowledged before a congressional committee that the German consul had paid him for publicity favorable to Germany, is subject to a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment and $10,000 fine if convicted.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP)—George Sylvester Viereck, admitted German propagandist, was arrested today by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation on an indictment returned in Washington charging him with withholding information in his state department registration as agent of a foreign power.

Viereck author and editor, listed in Who's Who as being born in Munich, Germany, emigrated to the United States in 1895 at the age of 11. His New York address is listed as 305 Riverside drive.

A spokesman of the F. B. I. said Viereck would be arraigned probably this afternoon in southern district court.

Viereck, according to testimony in a Chicago lawsuit in 1922, predicted the sinking of the Lusitania four days before that passenger-laden ship went down in the North Atlantic—an event many persons believe was the direct cause of the United States entering the World war.

Long after the war Viereck received

Two More Days May Be Required To Pull Locomotive From Water

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Cheered by the news it may be possible to restore navigation in half of the lock approach channel by tomorrow morning, workmen struggled today with the steel ruins that block the busiest iron-ore ship channel in the world.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Men of the sea and railway wreckers labored mightily today in an effort to pull a submerged locomotive from an approach to the American Soo locks and reopen iron ore's great gateway to the east to normal ship traffic.

Blockaded ore carriers, coming from Lake Superior with cargoes for the defense-vital steel plants, lay at anchor for a second day, and engineers said it appeared probable that they must wait two more days before the channel could be cleared.

Shipping authorities were of the opinion, however, that unless there were a protracted delay, little harm would befall steel production. Cleveland steel mills were reported to have a six-week supply of ore on hand.

Watchers on the locks saw a weird scene during the night as workmen climbed over the twisted steel of the broken bridge span from which a

U. S. BROADCASTERS TURN DOWN HAW HAW

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Lord Haw Haw of the Berlin radio—New York-born William Joyce—reported by short wave last night that American broadcasting companies had rejected an offer of his anti-British talks for rebroadcast in the United States.

This was the Nazi propagandist's explanation for a puzzling announcement of the Berlin radio last Saturday that he had been "banned from the air."

Paul White, director of news broadcasts for the Columbia Broadcasting System, confirmed the fact the speeches had been offered and commented:

"Only a Lord Haw Haw would expect us to broadcast a Haw Haw."

Having gained American attention, Joyce went on in his short wave talk to attack American politics for 15 minutes.

County Solicitor Says Nothing Supports Theory Of Abduction

By Fred Brady

CONWAY, N. H., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Pamela Hollingsworth, 5, gained strength in a hospital today after her ordeal of being lost in a forest for eight days, County Solicitor Burnham Davis ruled out any possibility that she had been kidnaped.

So incredulous were many persons—including some veteran woodsmen—at the child's stamina that they freely expressed belief that she had been abducted, held in a cabin or some such place and then released on a mountain trail.

Taking recognition of the skepticism, which appeared to be widespread, Davis called newsmen to his office in a midnight conference and told them:

"I have found absolutely no evidence to support a theory of kidnaping."

Medical men, who examined the girl shortly after she was found by a searching party late Monday, said her condition was consistent with having been outdoors for the entire period.

They were arrested at Miami Beach on a May, 1940, indictment charging traffic in interstate commerce in adulterated and misbranded medicine. They were released on $1,000 bonds each for appearance in Jackson.

2 Sisters Live 16 Years With 3 Unburied Bodies

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 8.—(AP)—The Jacksonville Journal in a copyrighted story today said two old maid sisters had been living alone more than 16 years deep in the pine woods about 20 miles south of here with the unburied bodies of their father, one of their sisters and a negro servant.

Leigh Culley, Journal reporter, wrote that he found the crumbling buildings which once housed the exclusive Pinehurst Seminary, saw the body of the negro servant and obtained the rest of the story from Mrs. William P. Bacheller of Newport, R. I., only living sister of the eccentric old maids.

The Journal story said Mrs. Bacheller recently placed one of her sisters, Gertrude Anhorn, 74, in a rest home in St. Augustine, Fla., but had not been able to persuade the other sister, Minnie Anhorn, 68, to leave the isolated plantation and the three bodies which the two women guarded throughout the years.

Mrs. Bacheller told Culley that her father, Elvert Anhorn, died in 1921, the old negro servant in 1923 and her sister Fannie in 1925. She said the two other sisters, Gertrude and Minnie, refused to bury the bodies and lived alone on the wooded plantation, guarding the bodies with loaded guns and having nothing to do with outsiders.

Mrs. Bacheller explained that her sisters had planned to return the bodies to Switzerland from which the family emigrated in the early 1800s. She said she knew of her sisters' "queer behavior" but had done nothing about it because they wanted to live alone with the bodies and had harmed no one.

Culley said Mrs. Bacheller told him how the sisters operated the exclusive Pinehurst Seminary from 1890 to 1918 after the father, a widower, had brought Gertrude, Minnie and Fannie to Florida in 1882. Mrs. Bacheller had been adopted by a Rhode Island family and visited her father and sisters only occasionally.

Gertrude, she said, never would bury anything she loved—"not even a rabbit." The oldest sister, Mrs. Bacheller said, "hasn't long to live." Minnie, who has refused to leave the plantation and the three caskets, was described as "a nervous wreck."

Culley said the bodies of the father and sister were in hermetically-sealed

10 ARE DEAD IN STORM'S WAKE

Tropical Disturbance Heads Toward Atlantic Off South Carolina

ATLANTA, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Cut to subgale strength by a long overland journey, a swiftly-moving tropical storm swung out to sea off the South Carolina coast today, leaving ten dead and widespread damage along its winding path from the West Indies.

The four-day-old disturbance carried winds of more than 100-mile velocity when it rumbled across South Florida two days ago but as it swung up the Gulf of Mexico and back across Florida, Georgia and South Carolina its force gradually died away until it returned to the sea with top strength of only about 40 miles.

The Jacksonville weather bureau in its morning advisory said the disturbance was passing to sea near Charleston at 8 a.m. moving eastnortheastward. The bureau warned that the blow might gather force again over water and advised caution for vessels in its path up the coast to beyond the North Carolina capes.

Storm warnings on display from Savannah, Ga., to Wilmington, N. C., will be lowered when the winds subside.

Three deaths were reported in the Bahamas, five in Florida and one in the wake of the storm that whipped across the southern tip of Florida early Monday, veered northward in the Gulf of Mexico and then cut a destructive path yesterday across a corner of northwest Florida and south Georgia.

WANTS GERMANY TO END WAR WITH REDS

TOKYO, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Domei, in a special article, today urged the axis powers to terminate the war with Soviet Russia to conserve German resources in manpower and equipment for an all-out assault on Great Britain.

The news agency warned that if the war with Russia is extended over a long period the axis powers may be faced with a dearth of materials because, it said, they are a union of "have-nots."

Britain and America, on the other hand, the agency declared, may become stronger because they represent a union of "haves."

THIRD OF DUCE'S FLEET DESTROYED

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Britain's steady battering of Italy's seapower has stripped Il Duce of nearly one-third of his merchant fleet, British sources said today.

Summaries of the British operations list 851,000 tons of axis shipping—99 per cent of it Italian—as sent to the bottom of the Mediterranean and Red seas since Italy went to war.

Official sources, although unable to give specific figures on the tonnage damaged, said scores of ships had been put out of action. It was estimated that at the outset of the war Mussolini's merchant fleet included 1,235 ships totaling 3,500,000 tons.

British reports said Italy's heaviest losses at sea had been during September when royal air force bombers and submarines of the Mediterranean fleet struck repeatedly at convoys attempting to strengthen the axis position in North Africa for a winter campaign.

Italy's war fleet also has been reported battered badly.

British sources said more than 50 per cent of Mussolini's torpedo boats and destroyers are gone, all of his 10,000-ton, 8-inch gun cruisers are out of action or sunk, one battleship is out of commission and three others, heavily damaged, are undergoing repairs

TOKYO PAPERS CRITICIZE U. S.

Publications Launch Tirade After Period Of Reserved Comment

TOKYO, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Tokyo newspapers, striking the same chord of critical comment against the United States, blamed Washington today for what they called the strengthening and spread of encirclement of Japan and said the Pacific situation was deteriorating.

Nichi Nichi in a page-one editorial said:

"Japan earnestly aimed at removing the Pacific cancer by Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye's personal message to Roosevelt (delivered August 28).

"However, the Pacific situation is going from bad to worse and it cannot be said what will happen next."

It asserted that "the United States evidently is aiming to include Russia in the A. B. C. D. (American-British-Chinese-Dutch) encirclement by sending oil and planes.

"This has irritated the Japanese * * * who now must expect any development and prepare for the consequences."

Nichi Nichi said it judged that Japanese-American negotiations were not progressing smoothly and the newspaper Yomiuri said that if the talks collapsed "Japan is determined to carry out the high principles set forth by the tripartite alliance" of Rome, Berlin and Tokyo.

The newspaper Kokumin, also in a page-one editorial, said "It is impossible to maintain peace in the Pacific as long as the United States refuses to understand Japan's real intentions."

Japanese-American talks, it added, "must eventually rupture unless the

THIS DOG OWNER BRINGS IN FLEAS

READING, Pa., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Florence Sidel, field secretary of the Berks County Humane society, reports that a dog-owner telephoned to say that several of his animals were "loaded with fleas."

"What shall I do with them," he queried.

"Bring them in," Mrs. Sidel recommended.

Some time later the man appeared, and placed a brown paper bag on her desk.

Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic freight engine had plunged early yesterday.

Under floodlights, the wreckers kept at the task all night. Divers earlier had fastened steel cables to the engine boiler despite rain and rough water. Two powerful salvage boats stood by to drag the engine clear of the bridge wreckage.

Once the locomotive is pulled off the bridge wreckage, half the blocked main channel will be clear for vessels. The next job would be to drag away the bridge wreckage. One auxiliary lock was open to shallow-draft vessels, but the two principal locks were inaccessible.

By early last night 42 boats were at anchor off approaches to the locks.

The reporter said Mrs. Bacheller, whom he met at the plantation the day after locating it by the light of a full moon and the whine of a dog, requested him not to bother the one remaining sister who still guards the bodies.

"You mustn't go in there," Culley said she told him. "It might upset my sister and I'm afraid you'd be shocked when you saw her."

Packages she had mailed to her sisters during many years remained unopened in the several crumbling buildings still standing in the deep woods. She said she planned to sell the antiques from the once prosperous seminary after she had cared for her two sisters.

She told Culley she would see to it that the three bodies were buried.

road to Moscow, declared that the invaders were striking "with the fury of a mad beast . . . straining all efforts regardless of cost."

The Russians said that there was no sign of a major break-through, however, and that Red army troops were holding on grimly against the assault of Nazi tanks and dive bombers.

A single Russian infantry division was said to have destroyed more than 300 German tanks with improvised grenades—explosive bottles of gasoline.

In the siege of Leningrad, the Russians drew a brighter picture, declaring their counter-attacks were growing in intensity and that 4,000 German and Finnish troops had been killed and many more captured in an 18-day battle along a river.

Elsewhere on the approaches to Leningrad, Soviet front-line dispatches said Red army troops had recaptured an important town, smashed three strong Nazi lines, killed 9,500 Germans and destroyed 35 anti-tank guns and seven batteries.

The crisis in Russia's struggle on the central front was admitted by Red Star, Soviet army newspaper, which said the Germans had driven salients into Red defense lines by hurling great masses of reserves into an all-out offensive.

Soviet dispatches, however, declared that Russian counter-attacks had inflicted bloody losses on the Germans in at least two salients—in the battle-scarred zones of Vyazma, 125 miles west of Moscow, and Bryansk, 220 miles southwest of Moscow.

"The Fascist command has thrown into battle considerable forces of aviation, armored troops and infantry," Red Star reported.

"The fierce battle is raging unceasingly day and night."

In a second bulletin, Hitler's field headquarters announced:

"While offensive and pursuit operations in the Ukraine are in full swing, a breach on the central (Moscow) front begun October 2 has led to a new and vast series of battles of annihilation.

"In the Vyazma area alone, several Soviet armies are encircled and their destruction is proceeding irrevocably."

It was the first time the Nazi high command had mentioned the vast new onslaught toward Moscow, heralded last Friday by Reichsfuehrer Hitler's announcement that "gigantic developments" were gathering momentum on the eastern front.

Soviet front-line dispatches said the Germans were "shifting from side to side" when blocked, stabbing to discover any soft spots in the Russian defense lines.

"Thus in one sector," Red Star reported, "a large German tank column tried several times to break through our defenses, but all attempts failed.

"Then they retreated and drove in a different direction, making a wedge in our position. Fighters of the 'Nth' detachment engaged the tank column. The Germans lost more than 1,000 killed. Our units destroyed six tanks."

Red Star said the Germans were suffering "enormous losses" for every step gained in the twin drives in the Vyazama area, where the Russians stemmed an earlier Nazi thrust in mid-summer, and from the Bryansk zone.

Soviet tanks and warplanes in a single sector were credited with destroying 133 tanks, 50 motorcycles, 10 armored cars and 250 truckloads of infantry in a 48-hour period.

On the southern (Ukraine) front, Marshal Semeon Budyenny's armies counter-attacking from the Donets river basin toward the Perekop isthmus, gateway to the Crimea, were reported in danger of encirclement by the German drive to Mariupol.

British military quarters said that if the Germans were able to maintain themselves on a 130-mile line between Mariupol and the Dnieper river city of Zaporozhe, the Red army units could escape only "by forcing their way into the Crimea . . . overcoming German forces attacking there."

Meanwhile, Germany's axis partner, Japan sent up a new trial balloon for peace in the Russo-German war.

Domei, the official Japanese news agency, urged the western axis powers to end the Soviet campaign to conserve manpower and equipment for an all-out assault on Great Britain.

Voicing the fear that Germany would exhaust her strength in Russia, leaving Japan alone to face the hostility of Britain and perhaps the United States, Domei declared that the Russo-German war was started to prevent any threat to the German rear and that this purpose had now been attained.

Behind the war front, Germany and Italy both took new steps to crush revolt in the conquered nations.

Under a decree signed by Premier Mussolini, plots against the state and sabotage in Italian-annexed territories were made punishable by death.

Hungarian press dispatches reported that a German punitive expedition after weeks of fighting had finally stamped out bands of forest guerillas who had been pillaging villages in German-occupied sections of Serbia.

One report said the expedition commander executed as many as 60 men at a time.

German troops, including flame-throwers, were reported to have driven off a band at Javenika, which had been held by the guerillas for several days. Fifteen alleged "Communists" were executed.

In another battle, near Rovanik, 24 Serbs were killed in a clash with 100 government soldiers.

Authorized quarters in Berlin said the German and Turkish governments had jointly declared there was no basis for reports of German troops massing in Bulgaria for an attack on Turkey.

Dispatches from Istanbul quoted diplomatic sources in that Turkish metropolis as saying the Germans were moving large quantities of troops and tanks from Bulgaria and Greece, apparently to bolster the push along the Sea of Azov and replace combat losses.

Red Star declared the German generals hoped to decide the issue before winter begins, but said "their hope is in vain." Russian observers said the Germans appeared to have drawn forces from both flanks for the central push.

Successes were claimed for defenders of both Leningrad and Odessa in their long operations against axis siege lines.

Odessa's soldiers, sailors and militant civilians were declared officially to have routed four Rumanian infantry battalions and the 75th German infantry regiment and the British radio broadcast a declaration that the German-Rumanian forces were driven back nine miles and out of artillery range of the Black sea port.

Aerial work was emphasized about Leningrad. Russians said Soviet squadrons had destroyed seven German planes, five armored cars, 66 trucks, an artillery battery and almost a score of anti-aircraft gun positions.

German planes struck at several points of southwest England and south Wales overnight and a British communique acknowledged some damage and "a small number of casualties, some of which were fatal." Bad weather over the continent blocked R. A. F. raiding plans for the third night in succession.

Premier Mussolini followed a German lead in decreeing that plots against the state and sabotage of communications in Italian-annexed territories be punished by death.

In the Orient, Tokyo newspapers blamed Washington for what they described as the strengthening and spreading of the encirclement of Japan. Nichi Nichi declared editorially that "the Pacific situation is going from bad to worse."

The newspaper Kokumin said "it is impossible to maintain peace in the Pacific as long as the United States refuses to understand Japan's real intentions."

The concerted outbreak of critical editorials, following a long period of reserved comment, came after disclosure of the shipment of oil and other supplies to Russia from the Netherlands East Indies, which Japan hopes to swing within her sphere of influence.

been touched by any night raids and has been only slightly damaged by day, said the travelers, some of whom had lived in Ploesti for several years.

(The Russian navy paper, Red Fleet, confirmed the existence of this dummy town, but said the Russians never had been fooled.)

The fake town recently was moved from its first location when it appeared that the Russians were beginning to catch on, the travelers said.

As a less theatrical means of saving Rumanian oil they said that the Germans had built two 10-inch pipe lines from Ploesti to Giurgiu on the Danube and had drained off all the oil which used to stand in tanks.

Now the Ploesti oil flows direct from wells to pipe lines, reducing the danger of loss through bombing.

The same travelers reported that the Rumanians had been unable to make gasoline of a "winter-proof" type recently demanded by the Germans but that the Nazi experts still were working on the problem and also were demanding greater production of high-test aviation fuel.

They said German Grand Admiral Erich Raeder had taken a house in Bucharest as if he intended to make headquarters there for some time, and that considerable numbers of German navy men were in the Black sea port of Constanta.

There was much gossip in Bucharest to the effect that dismantled German submarines have been shipped down the Danube to Constanta.

PROPAGANDIST FOR HITLER IN U. S. ARRESTED

constant correspondence from the former kaiser. He addressed many friends of German forums and was quizzed by a congressional committee headed by Representative Samuel Dickstein investigating un-American activities.

During that questioning he admitted he was in the pay of the German consul and said he had been paid $2,000 for publicity favorable to Germany in addition to $1,750 monthly for office and secretarial hire.

In 1936 he described a speech by Hitler as a challenge to peace and not to war and declared there was no reason for the world to get excited because Germany had decided to take possession of her own territory. Just before the present war was declared he described the Rome-Berlin axis as the backbone of the world.

In 1940 he resigned from the Overseas Press club of America at the request of the organization.

The indictment, returned secretly yesterday in federal district court at Washington and opened this morning after Viereck's arrest, said Viereck had consulted with "divers persons" on matters pertaining to political interests and public policy and public relations, and had prepared and disseminated speeches relating to those matters which were printed in books and the congressional record and broadcast on the radio.

There are five counts in the indictment, on each of which a penalty of one year in prison and a $2,000 fine could be imposed upon conviction.

One allegation was that he had written articles and sent them to newspapers for publication, using fictitious names. The indictment listed five names, one of which is that of a real person, although justice officials said they did not know whether it had been used with permission. The known real name is that of Dr. Claudius Murchison, whom an official said was president of the Cotton Textile Institute.

The indictment alleges that when Viereck registered with the state department under the foreign registration act on September 26, 1939, he failed to set out that between that date and July 1, 335 he had advised, consulted and informed "divers persons" on matters relating to political interest, public relation and public policy; disseminated information for publication by writing and editing speeches, public addresses and other material on political subjects and by writing and editing articles dealing with political subjects which were printed under fictitious names. The four other counts of the indictment alleged that in each of four supplemental registrations he failed to set out material facts.

HOUSE APROVES BIG LEASE FUND

of war supplies pouring from this country and the aided nations completely overwhelms the productive efforts of the axis.

"Our first line of defense lies in the lend-lease operations."

The big fund was included in an omnibus bill which carried a total of $6,159,416,229, representing a cut of $53,054,545 in budget bureau recommendations for items other than lend-lease. The largest of these reductions was a proposed item of $40,000,000 for the Tennessee Valley authority. The committee said consideration of this was deferred for two weeks.

The lend-lease fund was divided into ten categories, just as President Roosevelt recommended on September 18. The largest was $1,875,000,000 for agricultural and industrial commodities. The second biggest amount was $1,190,000,000 for ordnance and stores and supplies. Aircraft requirements would take $685,000,000.

The committee's report and the hearings, while stripped of specific figures in many cases because of military necessity, disclosed:

1. Secretary of Agriculture Wickard plans to use $1,000,000,000 to feed one-fourth of Great Britain's population for the next six months.

2. While lend-lease officials are dissatisfied with the "relatively small trickle" of materials going to axis foes, they expect the flow to increase greatly soon upon completion of the time-consuming initial preparations.

3. For every dollar of defense articles exported, 70 cents worth of other services has been rendered.

4. Secretary of War Stimson believes the world crisis is "no less acute and indeed, if anything, is sharper" than heretofore.

5. General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, believes that there should be no tampering or delay with the lend-lease program, asserting that "the British suffer today and risked their national existence by similar delays."

6. There are no plans for reduction of the army or for suspension of the draft program—either of which, officials said, would be "tragic."

7. Officials repeatedly asserted that it would be "dangerous" to deny to Russia the benefits of the lend-lease program, even though such aid is not now contemplated.

chant ships and allowing them to touch belligerent ports immediately.

He said, however, that the arming of merchant ships, now prohibited by section 6 of the act, would be the least drastic change that might be made.

"The arming of ships, as a matter of timing," he said, "might be the most urgent."

Barkley said he personally favored repealing both sections which would permit the arming of ships and their travel to designated combat zones and belligerent ports, but emphasized that was "merely my personal opinion."

Dr. T. A. Brulte, optometrist, will be absent from his office from OCTOBER 8TH TO AROUND THE 1ST OF NOVEMBER. During this time Dr. Brulte will be in New York City receiving individual personal instruction from Dr. William Feinbloom in fitting the recently developed PLASTIC CONTACT LENSES. Dr. Feinbloom is the optometrist who pioneered the development of the non-glass plastic contact lenses and is the acknowledged authority in this field. During the absence of Dr. Brulte his OFFICES ON THE 3RD FLOOR OF THE BERNHARDT BUILDING WILL REMAIN OPEN AS USUAL.

Fair Enough

grafter I will concede but the man, himself, told me, obviously with no realization that he had been guilty of any offense against public order and the authority of government, that when the Newspaper Guild was striking the plant of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer he threw a cordon of goons around the premises to attack any law-abiding American who might attempt to go to his lawful occupation. He had no argument with the Post-Intelligencer himself. But Heywood Broun came to him asking help for a young union, the Newspaper Guild, which even then was in the hands of the Communists and Beck did this to win Broun's strike, regardless of the merits of the case, and oblige a friend. Beck's goons were not there for the air. They were there to injure American citizens if necessary to enforce the will of the benevolent Broun and Beck, an outstanding example, of muscular, dictatorial unionism, simply couldn't realize that he had no right to do this.

In the last two or three years in many parts of the country local prosecutors have taken a little courage and have been sending a few union crooks of the more smelly and spectacular types to prison. There has been no summary of the cases but good prosecutions have been made in New York by Tom Dewey who knew he would be called a labor-baiter but wouldn't flinch, in Cleveland, Akron and Chicago. In Akron a vice-president of the Ohio State Federation of Labor, a person with a record of two crimes against children, had muscled into the building trades and hired two men to dynamite several jobs on which he and his gang were not receiving their rake-off in fees and dues. Not only had he been permitted to rise to this power over decent workers and over the whole community but when he was prosecuted the local unions refused to lift a hand or voice to help justice, and he was convicted in spite of the non-co-operation of the union bosses.

So, even though convictions are gaining it will be seen that convictions represent only a tiny proportion of the crimes and criminals. They protect each other like gangsters, they intimidate the courts and prosecutors and mayors and they plant judges who will obstruct justice in their favor, as the price of election, re-election and promotion. The present situation in New York in which the stick-up man, Nick Circella, alias Dean, who runs a dive in Chicago and holds high office in the movie employes' union, is hiding out from the federal court is typical of the attitude of this corrupt body of union bosses toward law and order. Dean is hiding out so that he cannot be made to testify against George E. Browne, the gangster who sits with William Green in the executive council of the A. F. of L. and Browne's criminal associate, Willie Bioff, the old M. P. or master of prostitutes. The A. F. of L. had made no use of its power to find Circella although this audacious gang is always ready to make demands on the government in the name of Labor with a capital L.

of food, and her toes suffered frostbite when the temperature dropped to the low 20s about midway between the time she wondered from a family picnic and the time she was found.

While agreeing many persons would have perished in panic-stricken flight in similar circumstances, they asserted the child apparently conserved her strength by drinking plenty of water from brooks and resting much of the time, particularly after her feet began to swell.

The girl's father, Joseph E. Hollingworth, Lowell, Mass., businessman, said after visiting her at her bedside yesterday that she told him she had seen nobody until her rescuers arrived.

He said her face was so drawn by her loss of weight he could hardly recognize her features. But the frostbite condition was clearing up and her heart and lungs were in good shape.

Playing with a toy fire engine he gave her, she expressed a desire to go home, but he said it was unlikely she would be moved until the latter part of this week.

JURY MOVES TO PLACE AIRPORT IN CLASS FOUR

tist Orphanage, which owns 242 acres of the desired land, and the J. W. Smith estate, which will sell 18 acres to the parish, will be paid in cash for their property. The land will be bought by the parish for approximately $200 an acre.

The land and the parish's part of the improvements to the field will be paid for from revenue derived from the special one-mill tax passed last July 16 by parish voters. On the basis of the present total assessment of Ouachita parish property, the tax which will run five years, would bring approximately $180,000 if collections were made in full, Mr. Hawthorne told the jurymen. The $135,000 figure was arrived at on an estimate of 75 per cent collection, he said.

The approval of the state board on issuance of the certificates is considered a formality. Previous plans for improvement to Selman field called for making the airport a Class three one, with extension of the two runways at the field, construction of two new runways, drainage improvement, and other work being considered.

With Juror Tom E. Hicks presiding in the absence of Jury President George D. Pipes, the body voted to instruct President Pipes to proceed with purchase of the West Monroe lot on which the parish's agricultural building will be located.

Juror W. A. Mills announced receipt of a check for $1,250 from the city of West Monroe as its one-half part of the price of the lot and made a motion that President Pipes be authorized to proceed with purchase of the site from the Peoples Homestead and Savings association.

Juror F. G. Studdard moved to defer the motion until the next meeting of the jury but his substitute motion failed to find a second and Mills' motion was carried with Studdard the lone dissenter.

A motion then was made to authorize acceptance of sealed bids on the building, the bids to be sent through the mails, by the jury until its next regular meeting in November. The motion was approved with Studdard dissenting.

The jury allowed the payment of bills on the purchase price of parish road equipment by a vote of seven to five. The body also voted to pay half of a cost of $216 for repairs to the water system at the Baptist Orphanage and approved issuance of beer and liquor licenses to the Delta club in Ward 3 and to J. T. Staples in Ward 5.

The jury amended the ordinance declaring Wards 1 and 6 dry to permit the use of intoxicating liquors when prescribed by a physician.

The body adjourned without taking any action on the parish sewing project. The jurors decided at the September meeting to forego any action on the project pending further action by the West Monroe city council. The West Monroe council postponed its regular meeting, scheduled Tuesday, until Thursday.

tion between St. Marks and Carrabelle, Fla.

More than 350,000 soldiers on maneuvers in the Carolinas prepared for the tail-end of the storm, which, the weather bureau said, was still attended by strong winds and centered just west of Parris Island, S. C., at 2:30 a.m., eastern standard time.

After whirling across Southern Florida, the storm picked up renewed intensity on its northward course in the gulf and smacked the coast line near Carrabelle with winds up to hurricane force of 75 miles an hour.

It battered Tallahassee, capital of Florida, with gale winds and moved into Southwest Georgia, disrupting communications, felling trees, and causing crop and property damage. The storm was accompanied by torrential rains. It was late last night before power was completely restored to the business section and close-in residential sections of Tallahassee, a city of 20,000.

Damage in Southwest Georgia was estimated unofficially at several hundred thousand dollars.

O. D. Eauls said five men, four of them negroes, drowned at the gulf coast fishing village of Panacea, Fla., south of Tallahassee, when storm-whipped tides trapped them in a seine-yard.

Frances Hester of Pavo, Ga., a student at Norman Park Junior College near Moultrie, tripped on a live wire blown down by the wind and was electrocuted.

Restored communications in the Bahama Islands, where a top wind velocity of 102 miles an hour was recorded Sunday night, brought news of deaths and injuries there.

basis that would enable records to be kept as an open book, and labor leaders to be motivated by public and workmen's interest, not by selfish personal motives.

She expressed the belief that "unions make a mistake in insisting upon a closed shop where it cannot be won as a matter of relatively comfortable and intelligent agreement between employers and the union. • • •

"It is of extreme importance that the trade unions develop in the near future a pattern of self-imposed discipline, a pattern of public policy which the members really assent to • • • ."

Tactics of the National Labor Relations board drew a sharp denunciation from Joseph Padway, chief legal counsel for the A. F. L.

The board's rulings, he charged, "savor not only of unconstitutional deprivation of personal rights, but savor also of sabotaging the president's policies."

He said one labor board policy "which should be stopped right now" was that of grouping numerous A. F. L. craft unions into one A. F. L. bargaining unit, denying them the right to bargain separately by crafts.

United States abandons her selfish attitude."

This outbreak of critical editorials follows a lengthy period of reserved comment regarding the United States.

One new factor in the Pacific situation has been the disclosure of shipments of oil and other supplies by the Netherlands East Indies to Russia.

The Dutch colony produces only about three per cent of the world's oil but this production, at a time when Japan has been deprived of this essential product from across the Pacific, is seen as a factor of increasing importance in Pacific relations.

REVIVAL HELD IN METHODIST CHURCH

The revival has been in progress at Gordon Avenue Methodist church, 2900 Gordon avenue, since Sunday. Dr. Will J. Harney, Wilmore, Ky., is the evangelist. The revivalist is nationally and internationally known, and is bringing unique messages of power each evening. Subjects for Monday and Tuesday evenings were, "The Persuasion of God's Spirit," and "His Spirit Will Not Always Strive With Man."

Special message is announced for Wednesday evening on the "Dangers of the Spirit's Rejection."

Special singers from various churches are singing each evening. The public is cordially invited to attend. Service each evening 7:30 p.m. There will be no day services this week. Prayer each evening by three groups, men, women and young people at 7 p.m.

SAYS COOPERATION HAS AIDED CLUB

Billy Haynes, manager of the Crystal club, stated Wednesday that he wishes to thank the public for the splendid cooperation given for the past two months that the club has been in operation.

He said that he desires a continuance of this cooperation and gives assurance that the place will be conducted on the high plane in the future as in the past. He states that Saturday night he will have the Tech Collegians to provide the music. They are widely known and a large attendance is said to be assured.

Through the fall, in order not to conflict with football games, Crystal club will be closed on Friday night but will be open Saturdays, Mr. Haynes said.

MANEUVERS IN CAROLINA FACE BAD WEATHER

Reports Of High Winds And Heavy Rains Sent To Headquarters

By A. F. Littlejohn

CAMDEN, S. C., Oct. 8.—(AP)—A threat of bad weather—heavy rains and high winds—hung over the First army today as its 359,000 officers and men approached the final phases of the first separate corps exercises opening two months of maneuvers in the Carolinas.

Word of the weather outlook was flashed to headquarters of the various units in the 10,000 square-mile area of operations by the signal corps which reported that "tropical disturbances are approaching, accompanied by heavy rains and a 45-mile per hour wind."

Appropriate orders were issued to take care of any changes in the battle situation likely to develop from the expected squalls. The men went on with their marching, shooting and mimic destruction of bridges and other communication facilities. The first corps problem, the only one of three now under way in which troops compose both the Red and Blue hostile forces, was scheduled to reach a peak with the main bodies of the two groups making contact during the morning.

Advance forces skirmished all yesterday in the general vicinity of Blackstock, and some units as large as battalions were in sham conflict before night.

Commanded by Major-General Charles F. Thompson, the First corps is composed of the Eighth, Ninth and Thirtieth divisions. In the field exercise the Eighth represents the Red army while the remainder of the corps makes up the Blue.

A night march of some 25 miles by the Twenty-Eighth division to prepare for a counter-attack marked the Second corps maneuvers in the Chesterfield-McBee region against a hypothetical enemy of superior strength.

Major-General Lloyd R. Fredenhall ordered the march in which the other two divisions of his corps theoretically faced the enemy's main forces.

The Sixth corps, commanded by Major-General Karl Truesdell, marched west from its base near Norman, N. C., with orders to capture an enemy supply base at Charlotte, N. C. The corps is composed of the Twenty-Sixth or New England national guard division. It was to take up a defense position in the vicinity of Norwood, N. C., after theoretically forcing a crossing of the Pee Dee river and meeting unexpectedly strong resistance.

SPANISH CLASSES ARE TO BE GIVEN

Two classes in elementary Spanish are being offered this fall at Northeast Junior college through the general extension division of Louisiana State university. Miss Hazel Mitchell will be the instructor. Classes will meet Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. and Thursday at 7 p.m. in the administration building and library respectively.

The study will comprise grammar and simple conversation such as required for travel in Spanish countries.

Since Pan-American relationship with the United States has been stressed so much of late and clubs have favored the study of Spanish, it is one of the popular subjects at the present time, Miss Mitchell said.

Persons interested are asked to call the office at the college, contact Miss Mitchell or attend the opening classes, Miss Mitchell studied Spanish in Louisiana State university, where she pursued graduate work in this language and also in the University of Colorado the past summer.

TO MAKE STUDY OF CONTACT LENSES

Dr. T. A. Brulte, local optometrist, will leave Monday for New York City, Wednesday night, where he will remain until November 1, pursuing a complete course of study under Dr. William Feinbloom who has developed the plastic contact lens to a high state of perfection, Dr. Brulte said.

Contact lenses were first used in 1910 but great improvements have been made since then. They are used to take the place of eye glasses with frames.

When Dr. Brulte returns home he will open a department of his business for the fitting and sale of contact lenses, and will be, so far as known, the only one in North Louisiana to deal in this particular line.

3 HIGH BRITISH OFFICERS KILLED

LONDON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Three high-ranking British officers, Major-General V. Pope, Brigadier H. E. Russell and Colonel E. S. Unwin, were killed in a recent accidental explosion of a mine in the Middle East, an authoritative source disclosed today.

No details of the accident, which occurred last Sunday, were made public immediately.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The state pardon board today unanimously recommended commutation for Henry Calvin Moity, sentenced to a life term here for the death of his wife October 27, 1927, in a dual trunk slaying case.

BOLDING RITES SET THURSDAY

Body Of Corporal Killed In Traffic Accident Reaches Oak Grove

OAK GROVE, Oct. 8.—(Special)—The body of Corporal Allen Bolding, of the United States navy, who was instantly killed in an auto accident near Rocky Mount, N. C., arrived here for burial today. The funeral will be held with full military honors, some time Thursday but the hour is yet undecided. The body was accompanied here by a buddy, Corporal W. Hebert of Lafayette.

Hebert stated that when the accident occurred, Bolding and companions were en route to a football game between Duke and Tennessee. In averting a head-on accident on the highway, the car in which they rode was steered into the ditch. Men on the back seat were slightly injur but Bolding and a companion on front seat were both instantly kill Bolding leaves his parents, O Grove residents, and a number brothers and sisters.

Oil That Troubles The Waters

A new attempt is now under way to settle the oil controversy with Mexico, which has bubbled furiously for three years though it has been turbulent since 1917.

Through the highest officials of the United States state department, Mexico now offers to place $9,000,000 in escrow pending final appraisal of the expropriated properties of certain American companies. If the companies accept, this sum would be regarded as preliminary to final settlement, the difference to be made up later either in oil or in dollars.

This proposal at least has the merit of definiteness, and it appears about the only means of approach to solution since private negotiations with Standard and several other companies broke down a year ago. In the meantime, however, the Sinclair interests accepted $8,500,000 for their claims.

How close an approximation of justice would be done by accepting this tentative offer, and building a final settlement on it, is a matter of the utmost complexity. The affected companies, including in their idea of the value of their properties all the value of the oil reserves beneath them, have made estimates as high as $150,000,000. Mexico has taken the position that she owes nothing for the value of oil in the ground, but that she should pay only for the surface properties of the companies. These one group of Mexican experts once appraised at $40,000,000, but set off against that so many claims for taxes and back wages that the companies feared nothing at all would be left for them on such a basis. The present proposal would appear to guarantee against any such result; to be roughly comparable to the Sinclair settlement.

The tracing of this controversy down from the original concessions to American oil men in the early 1900's, the new Mexican constitution of 1917 which specifically reserved sub-surface resources to the people of Mexico, the Bucareli and Morrow agreements in 1923 and 1927, and the expropriation of 1938, is a matter now of history. The present situation is "not a theory, but a fact." Whether the proposal will prevent substantial and actual loss to the companies and American investors involved is the immediate question; whether it cheats them of profits they had every right to expect they were going to make in the future is something else again.

Only an independent, technically brilliant and highly disinterested expert can say whether substantial justice is contained in the new Mexican offer. In view of the desirability of settlement, however, in which not merely stockholders but all the peoples of both countries have an interest, the offer should have the gravest and most careful consideration from the longest possible point of view.

Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Some time ago I became interested in ascertaining the whereabouts of an actress who had made quite a name for herself during the Twenties but who had dropped out of sight in recent seasons. After calling Equity and various agents without getting anywhere I got in touch with Ward Morehouse of the New York Sun, a sort of drawling encyclopedia of the theater who knows the theater and everybody in it.

"Yes," said Ward, "she's dead. She died in Hollywood about two years ago. That's the trouble with trying to find people who have disappeared from Broadway. They're either in Hollywood or they're dead or married and living private domestic lives."

I thought of this the other day when the Music Box theater, that bright little playhouse on West 45th street, "the street of hits," was celebrating its 21st birthday.

The Music Box doesn't look at all like an old theater and the reason perhaps is that so many successes of the theater have kept the name so continually in the theatrical page news and in the minds of drama-goers.

But it did seem old, suddenly, when one scanned a playbill of the first Music Box Revue, which Irving Berlin and the late Sam Harris and one of the Shuberts put on there, September 22, 1920. One saw names of persons who were wildly applauded in that day but who are prominent no more. You also saw a name that startled you because it is the name of a young actress who is in Hollywood today and who is well known everywhere and is highly thought of on both sides of this theatrically-minded country. Her name is Miriam Hopkins.

Scanning the list further you find these names: Florence Moore, Willie Collier, Sam Bernard, Wilda Bennett, Margaret Irving, Helen Claire, Ivy Sawyer and Joe Santley.

Well, let's see. Ivy Sawyer is married to Joe Santley, who is a motion picture director, and they are on the West Coast. Helen Claire is not the southern Helen Claire of two years ago who starred in "Kiss the Boys Goodby." Margaret Irving, the last time I saw her, was still with the Shuberts, in "The Streets of Paris." But Florence Moore is dead, and so is Sam Bernard. Willie Collier is on the coast. I do not know where Wilda Bennett is. I do not know where Helen Claire is.

After the Music Box gave up its policy of musical revues it became the home of celebrated comedies and dramas by such authors as George S. Kaufman, Noel Coward, W. Somerset Maugham, Edna Ferber, John Colton and Morrie Ryskind. It will have for its tenant this season a new comedy by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman. But next year Irving Berlin is going to revive some of the old Music Box revues that were so appreciated in the early Twenties. This should be an interesting venture, but of course he will have to have new stars, new names, and maybe in some instances even new songs.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 8.—Despite denials, the Charles Boyers (Pat Patterson) will team in a Broadway stage play soon if they can find the right vehicle. . . . Paul Mantz, who flies eloping movie-landers in his private plane, has joined the R. A. F.; he'll leave when he gets off crutches (result of auto crash). . . . Joan Blondell is reviving threats to quit films on December 31, 1941.

Tony de Marco and his new dancing partner (Sally Craven) are verifying this pillar's report of wedding plans. . . . Ha! Bill Gaston, once wed to Kay Francis, didn't recognize her in a local nitery the other eve and even argued with companions that it wasn't Kay! . . . Director Jack Hively ("Father Takes a Wife") and Dorothy Lovett, who replaced Simone Simon in "Call Out the Marines," are altar-bound.

Irene Dunne, now east, will consult Eleanor Roosevelt about USO matters, in which she's active. . . . Wotzis about Walt Disney mulling legal action vs. producers of MGM's cartoon, "The Alley Cat," in which the voice of Disney's Donald Duck is allegedly used? . . . I hear Meliza Korjus, happy with her receptions in South America, but unhappy over Hollywood's failure to give her a break, will move to Brazil.

The Charles Starrets, rumored divorcing, are trying again. . . . John Beal planes NYward this week-end for the opening of "As You Like It," in which his wife, Helen Craig, is starred. . . . Richard Greene, now on active service in Egypt, has been granted a furlough to make a picture in England. . . . Bon mot: Andre Charlot's "She's the kind of girl who meows 'em down."

Preview Nights: Pic of the week: WB's "One Foot In Heaven" (Fredric March-Martha Scott). A simple story about a small town minister makes heart-warming entertainment. . . . For Your Preferred List: Columbia's "Texas" (William Holden-Glen Ford-Claire Trevor). A super-western with more laughs than gun shots. . . . WB's "The Maltese Falcon" (Humphrey Bogart-Mary Astor). A "whodunit" chiller that will make theater cooling systems unnecessary. . . . Universal's "It Started With Eve" (Deanna Durbin-Charles Laughton-Robert Cummings). Mrs. Vaughn (Deanna) Paul proves that marriage doesn't affect a real artist's talent. . . . Disappointment of the week: Universal's "Mob Town." The "Dead End Kids" in a formula worn threadbare.

With "Charley's Aunt" a coat-to-coast screen hit, this story can be told. During its filming, production was held up by an argument about that whiskey-snatching scene between Jack Benny and Laird Cregar which most critics have tabbed as the best laugh in the picture. Only one man wanted it deleted from the script but his opinion almost carried the day—for he was Jack Benny, one of the shrewdest comics in the business.

Idol Chatter: Unless much of the action takes place on a grand staircase, it can't be an authentic Deanna Durbin picture. . . . Hollywood simile: As flattering as a lexicographer's analysis of any star's handwriting. . . . Even Garbo could point to Hedy Lamarr's feet with pride. . . . In-a-a-word description of Lupe Velez: Mexciting. . . . There are times when I actually believe those stories about Fred MacMurray's bashfulness. . . . Peas-in-a-pod: Sir Cedric Hardwicke and Charles Butterworth. . . . If gals like Ingrid Bergman stayed in Sweden, Minneapolis would still be a small village. . . . Add sights worth seeing: Mae (farmerette) West in those much-publicized overalls. . . . Bing Crosby is still our local Midas, but Gene Autry is his dangerous threat No. 1. . . . There's only one-letter difference between the woo and the woe in Hollywood marriages.

Apparently one panhandler gag inspires another—and here's Lloyd Nolan's daffy version. "Mister," pleaded the beggar, "Can you slip me $500 for a cup of coffee?" "$500!" screamed the victim, "why I can buy a cup of coffee for five cents!" "I know," retorted the panhandler with dignity, "but I want to get to Brazil. I can't stand coffee unless it's fresh."

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

KNOWLEDGE IS RAW MATERIAL

Knowledge is power, says the wise man, and we, the people of this up and coming country, are determined to get knowledge and win power. We, as a people, have overlooked one essential fact about knowledge and its consequent power. "Get knowledge, and with all your getting, get understanding" is the real law. Knowledge without understanding is a useless acquisition, and many among us have acquired uselessness.

What good does it do anybody to know who made the first American flag, how many stars and stripes it had, the date of its making, and all the rest of the facts surrounding Betsy Ross' achievement if he does not know the implications of that waving flag? Listen to the talk at the next gathering you attend and discover just how much of meaning and value the information, that is scattered like corn to the hens, has for the scatterers, or for that matter, those who receive it.

What good does it do a child in the school to learn facts about people, woods and fabrics, elements and qualities and reactions of matter, number and the theories of number, if the knowledge rests on the information? Knowledge that counts toward personal power must go beyond information and reach into practice or it will die of its own weight.

What I want to point out is that children spend their childhood and youth in acquiring uselessness more often than they spend their time in acquiring the quality of knowledge that will give them power.

Knowledge is raw material. It must be worked into the fabric of life, into usefulness, to create power. When a child is sent to school he should find there not only the facts in the books, but the opportunity to apply the essential facts to practical use. Most of the schools are content to set the children on benches, put a teacher over them to keep them there, in silence, inactivity and deadly do-nothingness. To set the children to work applying their information to material things, to allow them freedom of opportunity for investigation, trial, experiment and research would be too great a strain on the school machine.

We content ourselves with honor marks and diplomas and let the usefulness of our education shift for itself. And it does. Witness the idle youth, the boys and girls that are headed nowhere, have nothing to think about and consequently nothing to do.

The private schools attract pupils by furnishing shops and laboratories and opportunities for the active life which children must have to know with understanding the facts they absorb, but the public schools still sit in stodgy inanity, turning out fact-bound children who are unable to fit into an active world.

Every child, however dull he may seem, has within him something with which to make his way toward usefulness. Every child, however bright, has in him the drive to do something that will enable him to apply knowledge and acquire power. Only the school is lacking.

Why?

AND ECHO ANSWERS—

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—Thomas E. Dewey, who not so long ago had at least a toe-hold on nomination for the presidency, came to Washington the other day to cut himself a slice of red tape.

Along in the spring he was selected chairman of that drive to raise $11,000,000 for the United Service Organizations—the community chest for recreation in the armed forces. Dewey did his part and the money topped the goal.

The government had sponsored the idea and agreed to furnish off-the-reservation housing for the USO. Into the national defense housing bill for $120,000,000 went provision for building 225 USO cantonments. The bill passed and John M. Carmody's federal works agency was given administration.

So what happens? Nothing, says Dewey. With no cantonments built and no word of any building, Dewey began to get a lot of complaints. What was happening with all that $11,000,000?

That's why the former presidential aspirant came to Washington to snip a little red tape. He wouldn't tell how he did it, but he did say that "I think everything will be all right from now on. I just called a few people and saw a few more. For the most part, I found everybody very cooperative—especially in the army and navy."

Delay A Capital Mystery

The delay in getting the USO recreation drive under way has been one of the mysteries of the capital. The subject of army morale has been widely discussed. Editorials, articles and speeches on it have been included in the Congressional Record almost daily.

Still, no one has taken it very seriously for very long. Not even those politicians who seize on anything for a cause. Why? I asked an army official, a veteran of World war No. 1.

There are, he told me, two definite sides to this question and besides, almost any politician knows that the quickest way to raise a group's morale is to go about shouting that it is dragging bottom.

'Ten Times More Enjoyable'

Perhaps he is right. Typical of the conflicting stories that have poured into Washington are those which grew out of an investigation of a Massachusetts camp. The investigation indicated a morale so minus as to be alarming. Then a private, who had been in the camp nearly ten months, sat down and composed a piece which was written into the Congressional Record.

"Any one who snoops around a town of 28,000," he said, in part, "can find rumors about everyone from the mayor to the street cleaner. . . . And the same goes for a camp of 28,000 soldiers.

"Just give a soldier a chance to gripe, just give him the right conversational lead, and he'll tell you a swell story. It's the fashion. It's just as much a military custom as saluting—and ten times more enjoyable. . . ."

That, mind you, came from one of the "downtrodden" privates. It isn't an isolated expression either.

It may be an explanation of why national defense bigwigs have been more concerned generally with other matters and are more inclined to let the army and urban centers in camp areas work out the problems of morale. It even may explain why government officials weren't prodded a little sooner into relieving Mr. Dewey of that $11,000,000 gunny sack he was holding.

INSURANCE AGENTS OFF FOR MEETING

B. B. Handy, Grover C. Payne and J. S. Trezevant, representatives of the Great Southern Life Insurance Company, left Tuesday for Houston to attend the fifth meeting of the Great Southern Club.

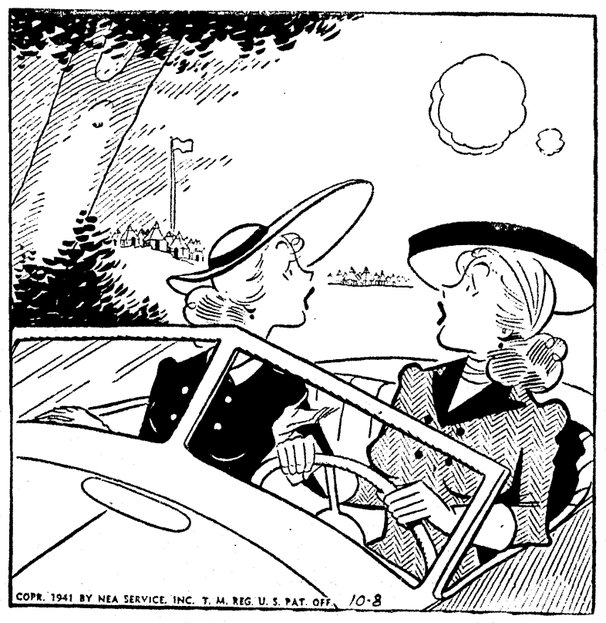
This will mark the first time Mr. Handy has qualified for his company's annual sales conference; the second time for Mr. Trezevant and the third time for Mr. Payne.

In addition to writing the required volume of new life insurance, representatives of the company must maintain a satisfactory renewal of the business placed during the preceding club year to qualify for these annual meetings. In spite of these strict requirements, approximately one out of every four Great Southerners under contract qualified this year. This showing is fine tribute to the industry and aggressiveness of the company's field representatives. Company officials are particularly gratified because the large number meeting club requirements indicates the value of the training program recently adopted in helping the men in the field to quickly achieve success. It is noteworthy that 10 new men qualified for the Houston trip in their first full year as life underwriters.

Beginning with registration in the company's home office during Thursday morning, the meeting will continue through Saturday. All business sessions will be held in the South American Room in the Rice Hotel, which will be club headquarters.

Only female bumblebees live through the winter.

FUNNY BUSINESS



"Then he embraced and kissed me—I think he said he was a sergeant-at-arms!"

Attention is called by District Attorney David I. Garrett to the act passed at the last session of the state legislature, which makes it a felony to sell, transfer, mortgage or otherwise dispose of property offered as security on appearance bond for the release of anyone charged with crime.

The first noon luncheon of the newly-organized Monroe Real Estate board was held this noon in Hotel Virginia, which was attended by 25 members and several guests. President Luther Reed of the organization presided. The chief matter under discussion was the widening and straightening of Harrison street which, several speakers agreed, was a matter that demands prompt attention and is one in which local realty men are deeply concerned. By-laws and certain matters that affect salesmen were discussed.

Plans have been completed by the architectural firm of J. W. Smith for the grammar school and fire station to be erected soon in south Monroe. Sketches of the building show that it will be a modern brick structure costing approximately $50,000 and containing about eight rooms. The construction is to be similar to that of other grammar schools in Monroe. The building will be so constructed that at a later date, when south Monroe has developed further, an additional unit, containing about five rooms and an auditorium, can be erected to harmonize with the general plan. The school will be located on a four-acre tract recently purchased on Lee avenue by the city school board.

Airplanes produced during 1940 amounted to 12,562 with a dollar value of $625,600,000.

FOR THE LOVE OF PAM

By VIVIEN GREY

Chapter 17

Unexpected Guest

"PAM! Ten years have been frightened off the far end of my life!" Jerry's arms closed around her and drew her tight, the water from their dripping garments making a little circle around them.

"Silly!" Pam exclaimed. "Have you forgotten that I was born in Key West?"

"And consequently swim like a fish. Yes, I had forgotten. I'd forgotten everything in the world, Pam, except that if you went out of my life all of its reason for being would be gone. That if I lost you I'd have lost everything."

Pam clung to Jerry in momentary panic. His words had brought home to her doubly what it would mean to her to lose him. She paused on the though of what she would have done if he had not plunged in after her.

It would, she knew, have built a barrier that they could never have surmounted. It would have separated them forever, because it would in a sense have been making a choice between his own crowd and her. If he had chosen the others in that crisis, she could never have forgiven him.

"Oh, Jerry!" Her emotion finally found words. "I feel that way, too. If I lost you, I'd lose everything. Everything!"

"I know, darling. I know." He kissed her damp face. "Pam, you're the dearest, sweetest girl in the world!"

"If I only could be, for you! I want to be everything in the world that you want."

It was Jerry who was first concerned about their wet clothes.

"You'll take cold," he said. "These wet things. Come. I must get you home where you can get dry ones."

"You keep forgetting that we Conch aren't afraid of salt water," Pam laughed. "Salt water never gives you a cold. It's being out in the rain that does that."

"Says you! Come, I'm taking no chances with you, sweet."

"But really I mean it, Jerry. We're never afraid of being wet with salt water. It never gives you a cold. That's a belief handed down through generations of seafaring men and their women. We're never afraid of the ocean, but we don't want its conch shells in our houses. We feel they're bad luck when you bring them under a roof."

"Nevertheless I'm taking no chances with you." He lifted her in his arms and carried her to his car. "You can change, darling, and then we'll go to the hotel and I'll change. We'll go back to the party and laugh at them for having given us the sweetest hour of my life."

"No, Jerry. I can't go back. Don't ask me to do that. I couldn't."

"But you don't expect me to take you home and then go back to the party alone, Pam? I couldn't do that, either. Not now, Darling. I've got to have you a little while longer. The night's too young and beautiful to give you up, even for a few hours, just yet."

"I'll tell you what"—Pam's voice was as eager as his own—"let's change and then drive to South Beach and let me show you the Southern Cross. They say this is the only place in the States where you can see it."

"In the mood I'm in, sweetheart, an ordinary garden-variety star would be a seven-days' wonder."

It was then that they were aware of Blaze standing beside the car, patiently awaiting her turn at attention. Jerry turned to her.

"You four-legged idiot," he said tenderly. "But you deserve a jewelled collar for your loyalty tonight. Come on," he invited and, with her dripping coat, she got into the car and rode along.

A Heroine Now

MELITA met them at the door and hurried to get a towel with which Jerry could dry Blaze. She hovered over Pam and clucked in anxiety like an old mother-hen over her chicks.

And Jerry, sitting on the bottom step briskly rubbing Blaze, who was thoroughly enjoying the attention, called up to Pam.

"Make yourself beautiful, darling," he said. "On second thought, this skipping the rest of the party is no go. We've got to go back. There is a lot of fun still to be had; the night's young. Besides, Pam, you're a heroine now, and won't that bite into Lenore's pride and vanity! That's going to be a wallop right where it will hurt her most, Pam—in her pride."

Pam didn't reply immediately.

"We can't let that girl annihilate us," Jerry went on then. "Besides, Mother and Dad would worry. They'd think we'd developed quick pneumonia, or something. So the Southern Cross can wait."

"All right," Pam's reply came thoughtfully, "anything you say."

Pam was thinking. Their mutual danger had tricked her into a revelation she had not wanted to make. A sudden upthrust of emotion had led her to say things she would probably regret, things she was not even sure she meant.

There was Leo. Steady, dependable, worthwhile Leo. And the memory of Jerry's bet about her with his friends still lay between them, an invisible barrier. That had not been explained away. Perhaps never could be.

She would go back to the yacht with him. That was all right. That would tantalize Lenore still further, and she had asked for all that could be given her. Pam was selecting another dress to put on.

"Since we're going to go back, Jerry," she said to him, "run along and get yourself into other things while I'm dressing, then come back for me."

She selected a dress of deep cream, a heavy rich silk that a sailor had brought to her father in return for some favor Quellerton had done for him. The marigolds, none the worse for their impromtu bath, were the single touch of ornamentation it needed.

"The encore, darling," Jerry said as he saw her again, "is better than the original number. If the girls were jealous of you before, they'll turn handsprings now. I'm glad to be going back to the party. "But," with elaborate emphasis, "that doesn't mean I don't want to see the Southern Cross with you later, darling."

New Guest

AS JERRY and Pam walked from their car to the boat, they noticed the solitary figure of a man standing staring at the boat with its blaze of light and sounds of gayety. They were passing quite near to him when something about the figure caught Pam's attention. She looked a trace more closely and then spoke.

"Hello, Vin," she said.

"Oh! Hello, Pam." The young man seemed to start as he spoke.

Jerry peered through the shadows and recognized the youth as the one who had seemed to be trailing Freda.

"Do you know him?" Jerry asked in a low voice.

"I've known Vin all my life."

Jerry turned to the young man then.

"Come along in and join the party," he said. "My dad owns the scow, so it's all right!"

Vin hesitated only a moment.

"I'm not dressed—" he started to say, and Pam smiled gently, for she knew the fresh white suit Vin wore was probably his best.

"Oh, you're all right!" Jerry cut in. "No rules and regulations here. Or if there are, I'm the boy who makes them. So come in and grab yourself an evening."

"I'd like to!"

Vin was beside them, walking in with them.

"Go pick yourself a partner, and have yourself a time." Jerry advised him with a friendly warmth. "No introductions here, the ship's flag does for that!"

So Vin slipped away to find himself a girl and Jerry and Pam were the bright stars of the moment.

Everyone had their congratulations to offer. As soon as he could, Jerry took Pam away to a little spot atop the cabin, from which he wanted to show her the stars. Up there he said:

"It wasn't stars I wanted to show you, Pam. Look! And he held in his hand the sea bean and the violet she had given him. "I've kept them with me continually."

"Jerry!" That swift uplift of her heart again. "But how foolish of you!"

"Foolish? Not at all, darling. These represent one of the smartest things I've ever done. And, you know"—he was grinning whimsically—"I seem to remember your saying you'd never ask me into your house again and my saying you couldn't keep that threat. Well, tonight you asked me in. I seem to be getting somewhere. Progressing, as it were."

"Foolish! Could I be discourteous to a man who had risked his life for me when he thought I needed saving!"

"Foolish? Well, as I seem to remember saying before, darling, it's nice foolishness."

It was then that Blaze, who had been crowded away from them in their triumphant return to the yacht, sniffed inquisitively from the stairs. Her nose was quickly followed by her whole eager body, her tail wagging madly at discovery of her loved ones.

"You old snooper!" Jerry scratched her ear fondly.

"Shall we go down and dance now?" Antoine was idling near the rail as Jerry and Pam passed. "Come on, Antoine," Jerry said, "we could do with a brace of cadenzas!"

Antoine grinned.

"The stars of the evening have but to command," was his easy reply as he moved toward his piano. A chord brought all the boys to attention. And Edmund's opening notes brought dancers to the floor.

Pam, looking over Jerry's shoulder, saw Vin trying to engage Lenore in conversation while de Bellefort stood close. Lenore seemed to writhe with embarrassment. Pam signaled to Vin. He cut in. As Antoine finished, he caught Vin's eyes in friendly greeting and held out his baton. Vin moved swiftly toward him, urged on by a friendly pat from Pam.

"Show them how it's done, Vin," she said.

BARRED FISHERMAN SHOUTS PROTEST

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—(AP)—A fisherman barred by an A. F. L. union from the Monterey banks because he fished Alaskan waters under C. I. O. jurisdiction, protested in court that a "poor guy can't buy a loaf of bread now."

The protestations, shouted by Salvatore Partinico, went into the record yesterday over the objection of Russell Zaches, Monterey attorney for the A. F. L. Seine and Line Fishermen's union.

"The outburst," remarked Superior Judge C. K. Goodell," is understandable."

Partinico said that since 1911 he had belonged to a union from which both the A. F. L. group and the C. I. O. Alaska Fishermen's union had sprung, and that during all those years he had fished both the Monterey and Alaskan waters.

"I want to go to work and make some money," the witness shouted excitedly in broken English, gesturing toward the union attorney.

"These fellows go around dressed like a million dollars. A poor guy can't buy a loaf of bread."

Thirty fishermen are asking that the court compel the A. F. L. union to let them work.

BINGO PARTY WILL BE HELD THURSDAY

The Knights of Columbus will sponsor a bingo party at their home, Hart and Wood streets, Thursday at 8 p.m. The proceeds will be devoted to the equipment of the clubhouse kitchen.

VITAL ICELAND AIR OPERATIONS ARE CARRIED ON

Bombers Thunder Off To Fly Sentry Over Atlantic Convoys

By Drew Middleton

WITH THE U. S. ARMY AIR CORPS IN ICELAND, Oct. 6.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Iceland, northern front keystone in the battle of the Atlantic, is the base for some of the war's most vital air operations.

Relays of bombers and flying boats thunder off her fjords and air fields to fly sentry over convoys far out in the Atlantic.

Other machines, flown by eager young men of the Norwegian fleet air arm patrol waters immediately around the island, also are on anti-submarine duties.

Flights of lighter planes of the United States air corps regularly patrol the island. Other flights are always ready to take the air within a remarkably short time after an alarm is sounded.

All these planes can be served and repaired in machine shops erected since the start of the occupation.

Facilities for take-offs and landing and alighting of land and sea planes are afforded by hundreds of fjords and land bases laboriously built, too, since the occupation.

Air bases here are a tribute to British ingenuity and improvisation. They started from scratch.

One R. A. F. officer recalled that when the British landed on May 10, 1940, the R. A. F. consisted of one squadron of aircraft directed from a tiny cabin in a freighter.

This "headquarters" boasted of only two pieces of equipment, a dollar alarm clock and a battered typewriter.

Marshy ground on one site was overcome by sinking barrels of cement as piers into the ground, laying planks across them and overlaying all that with cement. While construction was going on everybody took a hand—soldiers, sailors, airmen, privates and officers.

The prime duty of planes based on this and other airfields is protection of Britain's North Atlantic lifeline. This involves not only spotting and bombing German submarines but beating off the powerful German bombers which have been sighted well over a thousand miles from their bases.

Americans occupy half of one of the fields here. Officers said that although there appeared to be no likelihood of a German attack on Iceland now, the chances of a successful defense of this island would be greatly enhanced if the present fighter force were augmented during the winter.

The present fighter force has benefited so far from good weather. Pilots are up every day and rejoice at "this great chance for steady flying."

D. H. MARSHALL IS ILL IN HOSPITAL

D. H. Marshall, of 501 Bres avenue, agent of the Missouri Pacific Transportation company, is a patient in St. Francis sanitarium. His condition is said to be improving and he can receive friends for short calls.

He is hopeful of being removed to his home in a few days.

BRITISH JUBILEE STAMPS

Two hundred varieties of British Jubilee stamps were issued in 1935. A total of 1,000,000,000 of these was issued throughout the empire.

Helping to Keep Prices Right

The month in which this advertisement is published (October, 1941) will find the Illinois Central System handling one of the largest volumes of freight traffic for many years, if not in all its history. The same will be true, almost without exception, of practically all the active railway mileage in the United States.

Levels even higher are predicted, moreover, for the corresponding months of 1942 and 1943, provided national rearmament continues its projected pace.

That's DEMAND—and it comes face to face with what is still a rather limited SUPPLY. In most markets that would be a signal for a rise in price, a rise which would be reflected beyond in ever widening circles, as a ripple goes out over a pond.

But not so on the railroads. Their charges seldom rise merely because the traffic will stand it. They rise—and will rise in the future, if they rise at all—only upon a showing that railway expenses have been markedly and unbearably increased.

A factor in the price of every commodity is of course the sum of the transportation costs entering into its assembly and delivery. Therefore an important stabilizing factor in prices today is the knowledge that railway rates as a whole are actually LOWER than they were even at the start of the depression and very substantially BELOW their peak of 1921.

That's ONE REASON average wholesale prices have risen only a little more than 20 per cent in the last two years of emergency—and that means correspondingly greater protection to the customer who buys at retail.

CIRCUS CLOWNS LAMPOON NEWS

Outstanding Troupe To Be Presented By Ringling Show Here

Clowns are quick to present animated lampoons on current events, especially the 100 clowns of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus, coming to Monroe, Wednesday, Oct. 15, and they often produce take-offs on spot news almost before the ink is dry in the papers. However, many of the one hundred drolls with The Big Show have found that it pays to wait until the public has thoroughly digested the whole story on a national or international news topic. Then, and only then, do the funsters' efforts to garner laughs succeed.

The clowns that swarm over the rings and the hippodrome track of the Greatest Show on Earth are the headliners of almost all countries. In fact, the only noted foreign clowns who are not with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus are those whose work is too intimate for the world's largest big top, which is this season made of brilliant blue canvas, with red side walls and is comfortably air conditioned.

With eight hundred world-renowned circus stars and a multitude of new and sensational features, The Big Show will present on its gigantic program, "Old King Cole and Mother Goose," the most magnificent superspectacle in amusement history.

This fabulous, fairyland fantasy was created by Norman Bel Geddes, internationally celebrated designer who has radically restyled the great new Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus of 1941.

Performances will begin at 2:15 and 8:15 p.m., with the doors opening at 1 and 7 p.m., for the public inspection of the mammoth, redesigned menagerie of more than a thousand rare animals, including Mr. and Mrs. Gargantua the Great, famous giant gorillas.

Hundreds of purebred equine aristocrats in the new horse fair tent will also be on view before the main performances commence.

One of the earliest exhibition parachute jumps was made from the Statue of Liberty.

SPORTS EDITOR UNDERGOES KNIFE

Paul Martin, sports editor of the Morning World and News-Star, was stricken with an attack of appendicitis on Tuesday night. His condition had become so serious Wednesday morning that he was removed to the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic where an operation was performed immediately.

Shortly after Wednesday noon, he was said to be resting comfortably after the operation.

LEGION POST SETS DATE FOR SUPPER

The L. B. Faulk post of the American Legion, at their meeting Monday night, set the date for the annual mulligan supper on October 20. All service men are invited to attend.

Plans for the Armistice day program also were formulated at the meeting.

It is proposed to conduct a campaign for the decoration of downtown Monroe stores with American flags, tieing in well with the new municipal project of a downtown "White Way." The legion proposes to further the campaign to the end that flags be placed on poles 12 feet high located along DeSiard street in front of each place of business, being displayed on national holidays and when conventions meet here.

A $6,000 expedition once was made from England to central Africa to obtain a female specimen of the butterfly, Drurya antimachus.

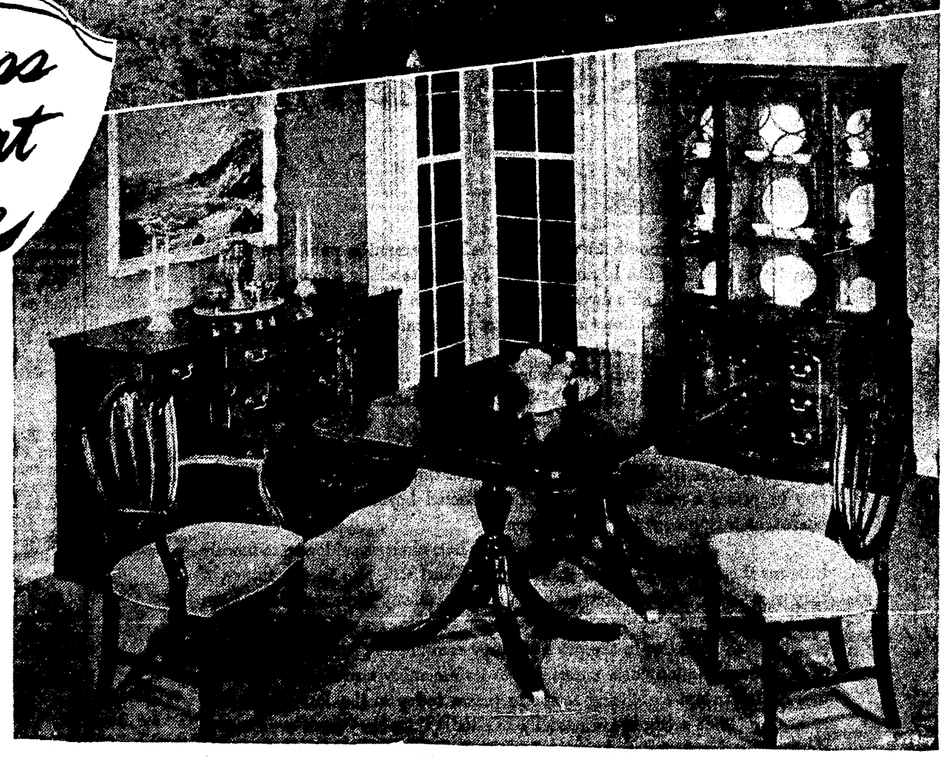
HOME FURNISHINGS STYLE SHOW HERE THIS WEEK . . .

Happiness Begins at Home



Visit Your Favorite Store This Week!

Each fall, for National Furniture Week, furniture and department stores throughout the nation present the new fashions in furniture with glamorous Home Furnishings Style Shows—breath-taking displays of what the well-dressed home will wear in months to come. This year the dates are October 4 to 11 . . . the show is on . . . and admission is FREE! Visit your favorite store and see the exciting new displays . . . the lovely creations of home furnishings designers and craftsmen . . . how they're assembled in settings rich in ideas you can use! Look to your heart's content, for this premier home furnishings event of the whole year is an Open House affair. The whole family's welcome . . . and there's no obligation to buy.

TOP: Colonial furniture of the 18th Century lives on in reproductions such as this mahogany bedroom suite—mellow, gracious, completely charming. Note that, although the furniture is purely traditional, the wallpaper, draperies, mirror cornice, lamps, etc., are modern—an illustration of the adaptability of good furniture to different types of decoration.

CENTER: Furniture need not be expensive to bespeak good taste, as witness the living room above. The Lawson davenport is upholstered in champagne and blue striped satin, the pull-up chair in a gold diamond-patterned damask, the lounge chair in the foreground in a multi-colored flowered tapestry and the wing chair in mulberry damask.

BOTTOM: The dining room, where the whole family gathers daily for the evening meal, is an important unit of the well-furnished home. Among the most popular dining room suites are those styled like the one above, with Duncan Phyfe table and flush-to-the-floor buffet and china cabinet, providing valuable extra storage space.

PEN HOUSE' WILL BE HELD ON THURSDAY

rniture Stores Invite Public To Displays Of New Styles

our Monroe furniture stores will l open house Thursday night in ervance of National Furniture k. The public is invited to visit se stores between the hours of 7 p.m. They are:
urrett's, Monroe Furniture com-y, Home Furniture company and Dixie Bedding and Furniture pany.
ll furniture dealers of the Twin es are observing the event with lays of the latest styles in furni-e and home furnishings.
lembers of various women's civic os of the community have planned decorated 13 model rooms at the nroe Furniture company and these ms will be displayed at the open se and during the week. Unusual l and artistry is displayed in the del rooms, which are beautifully appointed and show the newest decorative trends.

Clubs which are participating are: Monroe Garden club, Literary Guild, Current Literary club, Monroe Art association, Welcome Branch Book club, Miro Book club, 20th Century Book club, Musical Coterie, Fine Arts club, Review club, Business and Professional Women's club, Welcome Garden club, and Readers' Clique.

Furniture, floor coverings, bedding, china and glassware, lamps, cedar chests, pictures and mirrors, appliances, kitchens and breakfast room furnishings, draperies, juvenile equipment—all of the thousand and one things which go to make up the well-furnished home—are included in the displays. And in every style show, new merchandise fresh from the factories will occupy the spotlight.

Needs of the national defense program have handicapped the home furnishings industry only slightly to date, according to furniture men. There are rumors of eventual shortages of mahogany and other important woods, but style show visitors will find them much in evidence this season, at least. Plastics have taken the place of some vital materials. There is no dearth of floor coverings, even though the wool they use must be imported.

Prices are higher than a year ago, home furnishings authorities agree, but the economies made possible by the greater volume of merchandise manufactured and sold as business has improved have helped to hold increases within modest limits and to permit home furnishings retailers to offer exceptional values. Especially in the higher quality price brackets, shoppers will find that their dollars still have notable purchasing power insofar as equipment for the home is concerned.

The style show opening climaxes weeks of preparations which started with the wholesale exhibitions held last summer. At that time, local merchants searched the markets with National Furniture Week in mind, looking for the furnishings which would appeal most to local homemakers. Since then, factories have gone into production on the samples which won buyers' approval, deliveries have been made, backgrounds and other settings devised, correct accessories for room ensembles gathered together—and the show is on!

Home furnishings of course are on sale at furniture and department stores the year 'round. Helpful displays are set every month. The purpose of the style shows during National Furniture Week is to dramatize the new season's styles, to show how they can best be used to help the home-maker plan the improvements she wants to make in the next year. The event is especially designed for those who do not visit home furnishings displays frequently.

OLD-FASHIONED ROSE PATTERNS MAKE CARPET NEWS

Old-fashioned rose patterns for floors have revived with a vigor that makes them quite the news in carpets and rugs. For traditional settings, the charm of these patterns is unquestioned. Shown above is a typical design which so satisfactorily permits the building of room settings of distinction.

AUTO FIRM TO BUILD AT LOUISVILLE SITE

Issuance of six building permits was announced Wednesday by Sam H. Awl, city building inspector. HEART OF HOME IS LIVING ROOM

Latest Arrangements Are Featured In Display Of Styles

The heart of a home is the living room. That's one room even the most casual guest is sure to see and it's where the family gathers after the evening meal. Incidentally, it can be the most interesting room in the house, which helps to explain why most stores make living rooms the principal features of their home furnishings style shows.

Almost any model living room can supply an idea or two which the observant home-maker can use herself. It may be the way tables are grouped about the chairs to bring table lamps to the spots where they'll do the most good. It may be the window treatment. It may be the way love seats flank the fireplace or a knee-hole desk juts out from a window.

One of the nice things about home furnishings style shows is that ideas don't cost a penny. There's no copyright law to protect a plan for arranging sectional bookcases along a "dead" wall and the homemakers who copy the arrangement will never be sued for infringement of anyone's rights!

Although there are literally thousands of variations, all living rooms are furnished with three basic groups—conversational, reading, writing. The groups may be combined or separated, but the woman who wants her living room to be well arranged must keep those three functions in mind.

Conversation requires that sufficient chairs be placed close enough together, and faced in the right way, so that a reasonable number of guests can talk to each other conveniently when seated. To meet reading requirements, chairs must be placed so that enough illumination is provided, both by daylight and at night. The writing function, of course, requires a desk.

One test any home-maker can apply to her living room is to survey the scene immediately after guests leave. Are the chairs moved from the positions in which they were placed? Are tables shoved back out of the way or pulled closer to certain chairs? Is a floor lamp yards from its normal position? If so, chances are the furniture was poorly placed in the first place.

It's a slick measuring rod—within limitations, of course. Allowances have to be made for special circumstances.

EDUCATION DAY OBSERVED HERE

Lions Club Hears Talk By Miss Wossman On Changing Times

The regular weekly luncheon of the Monroe Lions club was held at Hotel Frances Tuesday, when Lion M. G. Moore, chairman of the education committee, was director of the day's program.

The principal speaker was Miss Julia Wossman, principal of Barkdull Faulk school, who spoke of the changing times in education and of the possibilities of the future.

Walter W. Kellogg, Twin City Community Chest campaign director, explained some of the workings of the chest and of plans for the ensuing year.

Mrs. Clyde Pedigo rendered several vocal solos, being accompanied at the piano by Lioness P. A. Poag.

Lion L. G. Hughes acted as tail-twister for the meeting. All late members were presented with the "horse collar" and Sam Davis had the privilege of wearing one of these during the entire luncheon. (Maybe he'll be on time next week.)

Guests of the club were: Mrs. M. G. Moore, Mrs. Clyde Pedigo, Miss Julia Wossman and Walter W. Kellogg.

Vernon Maish was presented as a new member.

P.-T. A. ROUNDUP REPORTS NOW DUE

Mrs. Paul Keller, summer roundup chairman of the Twin Cities P.-T. A. council, requests that all summer roundup chairmen from the 12 member schools of the council fill out their roundup blanks and mail them to her at 309 Breard street not later than October 20.

When these are received, Mrs. Keller will then send them to the state summer roundup chairman.

BRANCH LIBRARY OPEN TO PUBLIC

West Monroe Institution Has Formal Event On Wednesday Afternoon

Residents of Monroe and West Monroe attended the formal opening of the West Monroe branch of the Ouachita Parish Library at 307 Wood street, West Monroe, Wednesday from 2 to 5 p.m. The rooms were beautifully decorated with seasonal flowers and members of the library board acted as hosts.

The board plans a benefit bridge tea at McGuire Country Club on October 25 in behalf of this new library.

Opening of a public library for West Monroe has been badly needed for a long time, it is stated, and the institution has been made possible through the efforts of the Civic League, Business Men's Association and the city of West Monroe.

Mrs. Mitchell Barry will be the librarian in charge and open hours will be from 3 to 5 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Improved glass cooking utensils have resulted from the knowledge gained in the search for better telescope mirrors.

OPEN TICKET SALE OF P.-T. A. DINNER

Mrs. George Varino, banquet chairman for the Twin Cities P.-T. A. Council, announces that tickets are now on sale for the banquet, which will be held at the Grace Church parish house October 13 at 7 p.m. Mrs. Varino urges that all reservations for this banquet be made not later than October 11.

Mrs. Roger Sharp, first vice-president and membership chairman of the state P.-T. A., and Mrs. Cecil Brown, second vice-president and chairman of councils for that organization, will be the main speakers on the program.

All P.-T. A. members are invited to attend the banquet. A social hour will follow and P.-T. A. members who are unable to attend the banquet are invited to attend the social hour.

GOOD BEDDING PROVES CHEAP

Individual Reaction To Mattress Best Guide For Purchase

Choosing the right kind of sleeping equipment need not be difficult if a few primary principles are kept in mind, according to a manual on buying just issued by the bedding industry.

"Fortunately, it is not necessary for a homemaker to qualify as a technical expert in order to buy bedding intelligently," it states. "She can make her purchases, easily and with assurance of satisfaction by following these three rules:

"First, buy from a merchant known to be reliable; second, select the product of a reputable manufacturer; third, know your needs."

In selecting a mattress, the manual points out, it is highly important to know the comfort preference of the person who is to sleep on it. Comfort is a matter of individual reaction. This is illustrated by the preference of an individual member of the family for a certain chair in the living room. The comfort factor is of much more concern in bedding, for while a person sits in a chair for only a comparatively short time, a mattress is in use eight hours every night for at least 10 years.

"A high quality mattress is the best investment when it is to receive ordinary continuous use," the manual advises. "It will more than repay for its extra cost in longer service, and in addition it will give greater comfort during its entire life.

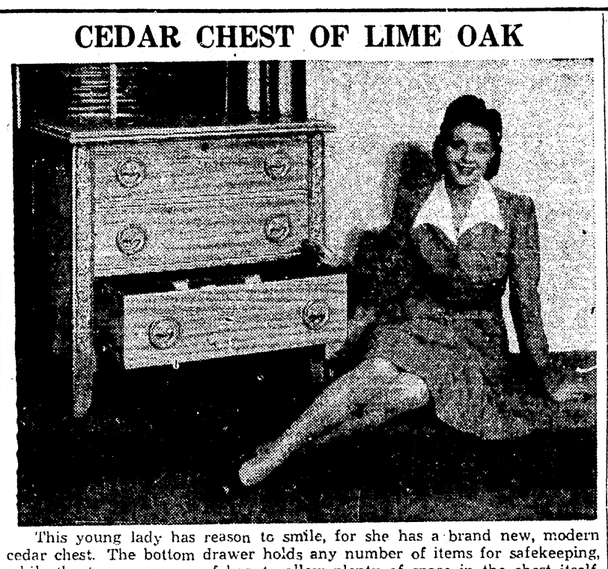
"Less expensive mattresses may suffice for guest rooms, summer cottages and the like, where use is intermittent or occasional. Even here, however, cheap mattresses have no place, for they will be deficient in initial comfort."

Pointing out the need for good sleeping equipment, the manual asserts that the average person can sleep on a poor bed, or even the floor, if he is tired enough, just as he can subsist after a fashion on unappetizing or poorly prepared foods. The modern homemaker, however, knows the importance of balanced diets and nourishing foods. She should know as well that there are qualities of sleep and that quality is more important than quantity.

"Good sleeping equipment merits the attention of every homemaker because it contributes comfort and high quality sleep to the lives of every member of the family," housewives are told. "Comfort in this case cannot be considered a luxury, because it is the source of sound sleep and sound sleep is a builder of health.

"Health authorities are agreed that the speed and bustle of present-day living have made sleep more difficult of attainment than it was in more leisurely days. Good sleeping equipment is needed, more than ever before, to encourage healthful rest and relaxation."

CEDAR CHEST OF LIME OAK



This young lady has reason to smile, for she has a brand new, modern cedar chest. The bottom drawer holds any number of items for safekeeping, while the two uppers are fakes, to allow plenty of space in the chest itself, for clothing she wants to keep free from moths. This particular chest is in the new popular lime oak finish, but the same piece comes in mahogany and walnut as well.

CAMP FIRE IS SERVICE GROUP

Girls Organization Made Possible Through Community Chest

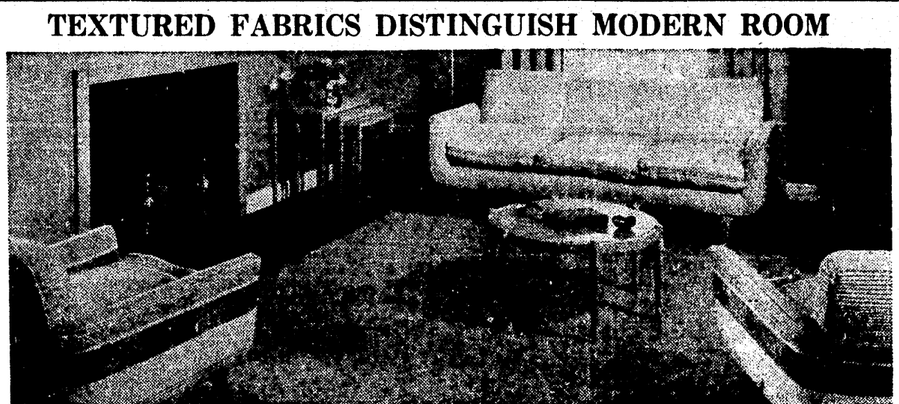
After summer is ended with its camping period, hikes and picnics what then? Camp Fire girls are asking this question, stated Mrs. F. B. Neely, Camp Fire executive. She assures that these girls are patriotic and have a deep sense of obligation as to service, and are determined to do something for national defense. They all are eager to wear one of those "Give Service" buttons, Mrs. Nelly said.

In this connection Mrs. Neely has stressed to the girls that no better way of giving service is to be had than in the home in caring for younger children after school, for in this way the mothers can have some time free for defense work, rest or recreation.

This, she assures, is an opportunity for some real experience in child study and care. Then Mrs. Neely points out that there is sewing to be done for the Red Cross, making outing sacks for the less fortunate, entertaining sick children, whiling away tedious hours for those in hospita sending cheerful cards to shut-ins,

These girls are ready and eager all kinds of service, Mrs. Neely sta and all this is made possible throu the financing of the Twin City co munity chest, in which they have share as a worthwhile local agency.

TEXTURED FABRICS DISTINGUISH MODERN ROOM



The modernist goes in for texture in fabrics to relieve the severity of line and expanse of plain surface which distinguishes the best furniture of this style. The rough, tending-to-shaggy rug, in the lighter colors so much admired, lends character to the room. Furniture coverings, repeating the rug color, also have texture interest.

BUILDING INSPECTOR GIVES TWO PERMITS

Issurance of two building permits was announced Tuesday by Sam H. Awl, city building inspector. McCain-Richards, Inc., was given a permit to construct a one-story, block concrete building at 1203 Louisville avenue. The building will be used as headquarters for the automobile dealers and will cost $15,000. J. R. White is superintendent of the construction.

Another permit was given Jack V. Russell to construct a one-story, brick veneer residence at the southeast corner of Glenmar and North Sixth streets. The dwelling will contain six rooms and a bath and will cost $13,000. A. G. McBride and Son, Bastrop, is the contractor.

Equally important is the choice of a d table, which forms the centerpiece of the dining room itself.

cience Plays Big Role In Latest Nursery Lines

umidity Gauge, Trans- parent Plastics In New Fall Suites

Kiddies are getting a lot more at- tion nowadays than in grandmoth- time, with scientific feeding, spe- ed training, educational toys and not . . . and while they are naughty on occasion, they cer- are healthier, better trained more progressive.

the furnishings that go into their homs, this scientific trend also is hitely apparent. One type of crib w on the market is equipped with gauge that tells the temperature d humidity of the nursery. Its e is covered with an unbreakable ooth plastic material, strong enough defy marring.

The same transparent plastic is used the bowed foot end of the crib, rmitting mother to peek at the baby thout fear of awakening him. For pearance, and for convenience, too, same material has been applied to door of her matching chiffonobe, to able mother to see the neat piles of by clothes.

Mothers themselves have offered ggestions for changes that now have ken form on many cribs. A new justable spring, for instance, elimi- tes all hardware above the mattress vel, and eliminates the possibility of untimely collapse or injury to the by's fingers. The spring is easily erated, even when the bedding and ld are in the crib. To further hten the mother's work, washable ished and natural finishes are used these particular cribs.

Another type of adjustable spring w on the market can be changed the child grows older or heavier commences to jump in bed. The justment allows the spring to be awn tighter, removing any sag eached blonde maple is the finish Many springs can be adjusted to as any as six different levels, including easing table level, both higher and wer feeding positions, bed level, a sition most comfortable when the ld is ill, and regular crib level.

The two-way swinging screen that included with many juvenile suites elps to keep drafts from blowing rectly on the child.

All finishes now are non-poisonous, if the youngster's mouth should me in contact with the wood, there no need to fear the effects.

Aside from being better constructed d more attractive in finish and yle, present day juvenile suites are designed to promote health and ap- preciation for finer things in the child, and to provide greater convenience for the mother.

$3,129,873 FOR ROAD MATERIALS SPENT BY STATE

Includes Only That Used In Work Done By De- partment's Crews

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 8.—(AP)—The state highway department in a special report today said it had spent $3,129,873 on road and bridge materials used by its own crews during the first nine months of 1941.

The total excludes materials used by contractors on construction jobs for the department and represents principally expenditures for maintenance.

By districts, the expenditures were: No. 1, Bienville, Bossier, Caddo, Claiborne, DeSoto, Red River and Webster parishes, $354,176.

No. 2, Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia, East and West Carroll, Franklin, Jackson, Lincoln, Madison, Morehouse, Ouachita, Richland, Tensas and Union parishes, $368,589.

No. 3, Avoyelles, Grant, LaSalle, Natchitoches, Rapides, Sabine, Vernon and Winn parishes, $192,656.

No. 4, Acadia, Allen, Beauregard, Calcasieu, Cameron, Evangeline, Jefferson Davis and Vermilion parishes, $811,739.

No. 5, Ascension (east of river), Assumption, Iberia, Iberville, Lafayette, Pointe Coupee, St. Landry, St. Martin, St. Mary and West Baton Rouge parishes, $406,030.

No. 6, Ascension (east of river), East Baton Rouge, East Feliciana, Livingston, St. Helena, St. Tammany, Tangipahoa, Washington and West Feliciana parishes, $464,665.

No. 7, Jefferson, Lafourche, Orleans, Plaquemines, St. Bernard, St. Charles, St. James, St. John the Baptist and Terrebonne parishes, $632,015.

Individual parish expenditures included:

Ouachita, $71,008; Calcasieu, $165,719; Lafayette, $69,448; East Baton Rouge, $63,429; Caddo, $202,161; Orleans, $7,503; St. Bernard, $4,585; Plaquemines, $33,480, and Jefferson, $258,345.

WALNUT STILL BIG FAVORITE

Accounts For 45 Per Cent Of Bedroom Furni- ture Sales

America's favorite wood for furniture in 1941 is American walnut. Approximately 45 per cent of bedroom sales and 44 per cent of dining room sales reported to the National Retail Furniture association this year were in walnut. Mahogany was the second ranking wood, scoring 20 per cent of sales in bedroom furniture, and 35.5 per cent in dining room. Maple ranked third, with 19.2 per cent in bedroom, and 8.6 per cent in dining room.

One cause for the dominance of walnut is seen in the fact that modern furniture, which uses walnut extensively, was the favorite style reported by the stores figuring in the survey. Modern prevailed as the outstanding style preference in bedroom, with 44.8 per cent; in dining room, with 36.3 per cent, and in livin room, with 34.3 per cent. Eighteenth Century furniture finished second in bedroom and dining room and third in living room, where unstyled pieces took second position.

A plentiful supply of American walnut is available, cabinet wood experts say, despite the fact that it has long been the favored wood for gun stocks. Supplies of "blank" walnut blocks left over from World war supplies more than two decades ago will care for America's defense needs for some time to come, government authorities have advised lumber mills.

The 22-year-old walnut "blanks," as the blocks are called, are being cut to fit the new Garand rifles now being used, and the perfect condition in which they were found after long storage in government warehouses testifies to the enduring quality of the wood, it is pointed out.

Increasing use of domestic hardwoods for furniture is predicted, due to the fact that imported woods must be transported to this country in ships, which are hard to obtain. Shipping costs, consequently, have gone sky-high, as has insurance. It now costs from 500 to 600 per cent more to bring in foreign woods than it did in pre-war times. As a result, manufacturers of furniture, although reducing their number of patterns, are showing a greater variety of designs in native woods, in both modern and traditional styles this fall.

"Walnut is almost an ideal wood for furniture, because it combines the many qualities that make for beauty, strength and durability," says the government text, "Furniture, Its Selection and Use." It "combines moderate weight with maximum strength. It seasons well, works well, holds up durably under usage, and has beautiful grain and color."

POST ESTABLISHED

A detached military police post has been established in Monroe to maintain good order among military personnel passing through the city, Monroe police have been informed by army officials at Camp Beauregard.

TIMBER MEETINGS ARE SCHEDULED

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 8.—(Special)—A series of meetings of prime importance to timber growers in Louisiana will be held in various parts of the state next week, according to announcement here by A. S. McKean, extension forester of L. S. U. The principal speaker at the meetings will be Dr. N. H. Wheeler, chief lecturer of the United States forest service. The meetings will begin Monday, October 13, with a gathering at Farmerville, Union parish, at 2 o'clock in the courthouse.

Other dates have been announced as follows: Bastrop, October 14, meeting of Kiwanis club at noon, and a second meeting at the Morehouse courthouse at 7:30 p.m.; Jonesboro, October 15, 7:30 p.m., courthouse; Arcadia, October 16, 7:30 p.m., courthouse; Mansfield, October 17, noon, courthouse; Leesville, October 18, 9:30 a.m., courthouse; Jena, October 20; DeRidder, October 21; St. Helena, Greensburg, October 22, 7:30 p.m., high school auditorium; Denham Springs, October 23, 7 p.m., high school auditorium; Amite, October 24.

Reception-Tea Honors Bride Of Recent Date

Three Hundred And Fifty Guests Call At The A. K. Crow Home During The Tea Hour

Mrs. Aylmer Crow, Jr., wearing a London brown model braided in rust color and a corsage of bouvardia, was introduced to three-hundred and fifty guests by Mrs. A. K. Crow during the tea hour.

Mrs. Crow, a bride of recent date stood with the hostess in the reception suite adorned with fall roses and bronze colored chrysanthemums overflowing from tall urns placed advantageously in the background. The hostess wore a light brown model with corsage of yellow asters. Mrs. F. H. Frost and Mrs. Jessie King assisted the hostess in receiving.

In the dining room Mrs. J. T. Johnson and Mrs. Jack Powell presided over the handsome silver urns gracing either end of the lace-covered table. White carnations arranged in an oblong plaque and encircled with tall white tapers formed the central floral decor. Silver trays held a variety of pastries, assorted sandwiches and small individual wedding cakes embossed in valley lilies.

Lingering summer finds boating parties on the Ouachita a popular form of entertainment. The Brown Kraft, recently overhauled from stem to stern, with hardwood floors and venetian blinds in the cabin, continues to be the scene of congenial boating parties.

Mrs. J. Q. Graves entertained members of her luncheon-bridge club on board the Brown Kraft and extended numerous courtesies during the all-day trip on the river. At noon luncheon was served at small, linen-covered, silver-serviced tables in the cabin to Mrs. J. W. McWilliams, Mrs. R. B. Frizzell, Mrs. Henry Blanks, Mrs. A. L. Harrington, Mrs. Allan Sholars, Mrs. Travis Oliver, Mrs. Morris Haas, Mrs. John Breard, Mrs. L. P. Milner, Mrs. Arthur Dryburgh, Mrs. Francis Faulk.

Mrs. Smith Gives Radio Address

It takes something really special to lure 25 or more working women from their precious Sunday morning sleep.

A sermon especially prepared by Rev. E. Holloway, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, for members of the Business and Professional Women's Club was the main attraction Sunday morning. Members of the local club, meeting on the mezzanine floor of the Frances Hotel Sunday morning, inaugurated their week's activities in connection with the 14th annual observance of National Business Woman's Week. A prominent figure in this group this week is the president, Mrs. Jennie Thornton.

Other events, scheduled daily this week focus attention on the activities of business and professional women generally and the achievements of women in the world outside the home. Planned originally as a dramatization of the contribution of women to business, the week has come to be a rededication of trained women to high purposes and the civic responsibilities for which their training has fitted them.

The theme of National Business Women's Week for 1941 is "Strengthen Democracy for Defense." In an official endorsement of the observance, expressed in a letter to the president of the national federation, Dr. Minnie L. Maffett of Dallas, President Roosevelt wrote, "The women of this country have a definite place in our defense preparations. Any national organization which tends to solidify their efforts is doing a thoroughly worthwhile thing.

"Modern war spares no element nor individual. We have had terrible demonstration of this fact for two years. Civilians, including women and children have in many instances undergone as great suffering and privation as the armed forces.

"We are defending ourselves in order to prevent this form of cruel warfare from reaching our shores. That means we must achieve total preparedness in order to forestall war in the United States."

Each day this week talks are being broadcast over station KMLB by members of the local Business and Professional Women's Club. On Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock, Mrs. Lorenzo Smith interpreted the word "defense" in a splendid talk. Mrs. Smith praised the spirit of democracy that promoted a few civic-spirited citizens to launch the free-lunch project for school children.

Miss Mabel Cole and Miss Marillyn Marshall, students at L. S. U., will spend the week-end in Monroe with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Cole, at Pargoud plantation and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Petty on North Third street.

Friends will regret to learn of the serious illness of Mrs. J. T. Hinke in the Baptist Hospital in St. Louis. Rev. and Mrs. Hinke were visiting relatives in St. Louis when Mrs. Hinke was taken ill.

Miss Marillyn Marshall of this city has just been elected president of the Kappa Delta sorority pledges at L. S. U., where she is a junior student in the school of journalism. She was graduated from Sullins College, Bristol, Va., last June. She made a splendid record at Sullins', where she served as senior editor of the year book and in the school of dramatic art, where she served as president of the Curry Club, as well as taking leading roles in all play productions.

Kappa Deltas chose a rather unique way of introducing their pledge officers and pledges to the campus. Since a rule has been made forbidding formal tea dances and elaborate entertaining for the duration of the present emergency, they gave an informal dance with defense stamps for favors and a juke box for music. The money saved in this manner was used for purchasing defense bonds.

PROMINENT FIGURES IN CIVIC MUSIC CAMPAIGN

Mr. Marion Heath, national representative of the Civic Music association is seen with Mrs. C. C. Colvert, prominent figure in musical circles who is assisting with the annual membership drive in Monroe this week. Mr. [illegible] is giving valuable assistance and is meeting daily with the team captains and members of their committees.

MUSIC CAMPAIGN PROMISING ONE

First Reports To Be Returned Tonight; Workers Are Busy

The Monroe Civic Music Association's 1941-1942 campaign, which started off with unusual enthusiasm at the "kickoff" banquet at Hotel Frances, Monday night, was said by Campaign Manager Marion Heath to be progressing well. The first reports will be returned at a meeting at Hotel Frances, Wednesday night, and it is expected that the more than 100 workers will bring in a large number of enrollments.

The busiest place in the ever busy Hotel Frances right now is the booth in the lobby where workers in the civic music campaign are located and where groups assemble in large numbers as they return unofficial reports and plan for more membership enrollments.

Marion Heath, who came here to direct the campaign, having closed a successful one in Meridian, Miss., stated that he has never visited a city where he has been given a more enthusiastic reception and that judging from contacts he has already made here that Monroe and West Monroe are exceptionally music minded.

A city like Monroe is a place of growth and constant development, Mr. Heath said, but he stated that along with commercial and economic development that there should be developed a certain degree of music consciousness and appreciation.

The coming year, Mr. Heath assures, there are many stars, some well established and some newer ones whose future looms bright, who will be available for Monroe in the programs that are to be given here. The more members that are obtained, the more money is available and more expensive artists can be had if there is sufficient money available.

The reports on Wednesday night will be eagerly anticipated and reports that will be made of results on Thursday promise to be abundantly reassuring.

THIS PROMISES TO BE ANOTHER HOT ELECTION

BINGHAM, Utah, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Eugene Morris will have his name on the ballot for reelection as county recorder only once, but he isn't worrying.

He entered as candidate for the non-partisan, the labor and the people's parties. The attorney general said nothing doing, so the people's party folded, the labor party decided to enter no candidate, leaving only candidate Morris of the non-partisan party.

MISSISSIPPI ELEVENS TAKE SOUTHEAST SPOTLIGHT

YES FOCUS ON STATE-BENGAL GRID CONTEST

Maroon Coach Fears Louisiana Tigers; Ole Miss To Battle Georgia

By Romney Wheeler

ATLANTA, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Mississippi's twin football powers go gunning this week-end—both of them in quest of dark horses.

Mississippi State, fresh from a stunning upset of top-ranked Alabama, will try forging another link toward a second unbeaten season against Louisiana State. Mississippi, beaten by Georgetown but still one of the rankling teams of the Southeastern conference, seeks a second successive win for Harry Mehre over Georgia's sensational Bulldogs.

L. S. U., at the start of the season, was rated in a tie with Georgia for probable fourth place in an unofficial poll of the Southeastern conference coaches. Since then the Tigers have played twice, first to Holy Cross and then to Texas, but Mississippi State's coach, Allyn McKeen, isn't selling them short.

"L. S. U. always plays harder and better ball against us than they do against any other team," he said, recalling that although State won last year, 22-7, the Maroons never got inside L. S. U.'s 20-yard line on the ground and scored three touchdowns on long passes.

Coach Bernie Moore, however, expressed gloom over Tiger chances.

"Gee whiz!" he exclaimed, "the Maroons beat Alabama by two touchdowns. After that, good Lord, I'm afraid to think what they'll do to us Saturday."

Moore indicated he might shuffle his first stringers, injecting several teammates in an effort to achieve better defensive strength.

Ole University, Miss., Harry Mehre started off with traditional pessimism, hinting he was ready to flag the Rebels into an "also ran" berth and start pegging things down for an occasional upset along the line. He suggested that the crying towel would be much in evidence "after Georgia beats us Friday night."

"And after Georgia," he added, "we have Holy Cross, Tulane, Marquette, Louisiana State, Arkansas and Mississippi State. Maybe we can beat one or two . . ."

At Georgia, backers of Wally Butts' Bulldogs agreed that championship hopes of both teams ride on the game's outcome. Against Georgia's all-America nominee, Frankie Sinkwich, Mississippi will throw two more all-America hopefuls, Junie Hovious and Merle Hapes.

Last year Mississippi whipped Georgia, 28-14, and that Hapes-Hovious combination was the Rebels' heavy artillery. Against Mississippi the Bulldogs' great line will get its severest test. Georgia held Mercer to minus-6 yards in the opening game, South Carolina to minus-eight last Saturday. Sinkwich, whose jaw was fractured in the South Carolina game, will play with a mask-from-Mars headgear protecting him from further injury. Butts made no comment on the probable outcome of the game but indicated great respect for Mississippi's power. He said he hoped to use his first string line most of the game to offset the Rebels' advantage in experienced reserves.

The Georgia-Mississippi game is scheduled for 7:15 p.m., central standard time, Friday night at Sanford stadium, Athens, with an estimated crowd of 25,000. Kickoff for the Mississippi State-L. S. U. game is set for 7:15 p.m., central standard time, Saturday night at Baton Rouge, with 25,000 expected.

Dixie Sports Huddle

By Rodney Wheeler

ATLANTA, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Tennessee wasn't the only football power taking it on the nose last Saturday. . . . Chattahoochee (Fla.) High school's six-man football team, which hadn't lost a game in two years and last season claimed the Southern schoolboy championship, was whipped 31-9 by Port St. Joe (Fla.). . . . Here's one for the book . . . The Colquitt (Ga.) six-man football team has played two games this season without finding it necessary to punt once.

Don't quote me: "This Vanderbilt team is one of the greatest I've ever seen," says Putty Overall, coach at Tennessee Tech. He thinks Tulane is the only Southeastern conference team with a chance to stop the Commodores, "and I wouldn't bet against Vandy in that one."

Hatband stitches: New Orleans writers think Tulane vs. Texas would be a Sugar Bowl natural, if the Longhorns and Green Wave come through undefeated. . . . At the moment Red Dawson, Tulane coach, is worrying about Rice institute. . . . The Wave always has rough going against Jess Neely's teams. . . . Yep, the football season really is under way: Orange Bowl tickets have been put on sale. . . . The Plant City (Fla.) Quarterback club set 200 members as its quota. . . . Last week it enrolled the 200th man—from Canada. . . . He was E. J. DeVan, Plant City youth training with the Royal Canadian Air Force. . . . Fishing enthusiasts, along with golfers, are facing lean times. . . . A large tackle manufacturer has announced that government restrictions of metals and plastics may suspend production of reels and other equipment.

He never misses: For three years Tom Anderson, Knoxville Journal sports columnist, picked the University of Tennessee to win every football game. . . . They won. . . . Last week Anderson felt the limb cracking, picked the opposition. . . . Duke snapped the Tennessee victory string at 34.

Late mail: Max Wharton, former end at Temple university and now serving in the United States army at Turner Field, Ga., has bet a pipe against a carton of cigarettes that Andy Tomasic, Temple fullback, makes All-America this year. . . . Jimmy De Sola, 190-pound Spanish heavyweight, is seeking a fight with Buddy Scott, possibly in Tampa. . . . Columbus (Ga.) will go all out for baseball Thursday with an "Elmer Riddle Day" honoring the National leaguer. . . . A dinner sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce will climax the celebration. . . . The Medicos say Frankie Sinkwich won't be hindered by that fractured jaw, but the Georgia football ace will look like a hooded wrestler in a specially-constructed helmet. . . . The protecting leather probably will come down to his shoulders.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Catching up on the news: Ted Broadribb writes Nat Fleischer, editor of The Ring magazine, that he's serious about getting Red Cochrane over to London to tangle with Arthur Danahar, the British empire champ. . . . But he doesn't explain what he proposes to do about getting Red's dough over here. . . . Eastern racing folks, who had their doubts about Alsab until they saw him, now are going for the Chicago colt in a big way. Handicapper Jack Campbell handed him 135 pounds for Saturday's Remsen handicap at Jamaica and Assigned requested only 126. . . . Dolph Camilli made the fastest getaway of any of the world series players. He's piloting his own plane out to his California ranch. . . . The Joe DiMaggio heir is expected in about a month and Marius Russo will welcome another southpaw in December. . . . DiMag was worried more about the coming event than his batting average during the series and was asking married pals whether it's poppa or mama who has to get up when Junior sounds off at 2:30 a.m.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Dick Boyle, Portland (Me.) Evening Express: Straightest line between two points on a football field is a forward pass (unless they're pitching curves). . . . If the two points in question are proficient enough, the air lane is the easiest, least time-consuming route along the touchdown trails.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

One-Eyed Connolly earned a regular job with the National semi-pro baseball tournament when he didn't let a single gate crasher escape while 103,000 cash customers came in. . . . Tony Sisti, the Buffalo boy who combined painting with prize fighting, is sticking close to his palette these days and has a one-man exhibit at a New York gallery this week. . . . Southern grid experts may get a line on their "all" team prospects Saturday when Georgia's Frankie Sinkwich tangles with Hapes and Hovious of Ole Miss. . . . A Western conference statistician has figured it out that the mathematical odds against picking 'em right in football pools range from 8-1 on three winners up to 1,224 to 1 on ten winners.

SERVICE DEPT.

The Camp Croft (S. C.) football team has four ex-captains of college teams—Joe Manzo of Boston college, Tony Cabello of Lafayette, Mouse Bessel of Bucknell and George Wood of American International—and Jack Schwartz, who was captain-elect at W. and J. . . . Corporal Chuck Fenske has been taking on weight in the army and since the training period has been extended, has decided not to try a foot-racing comeback. . . . When Moffett Field (Calif.) played St. Mary's last week, the admission price for service men was only 50 cents and St. Mary's gave two-thirds of the entire game to service organizations. . . . Private Johnny "Pug" Mitchell, who became a Kentucky Colonel while playing for Murray (Ky.) Teachers in 1938, had to start at the bottom again as recreation director at Sheppard Field (Tex.). . . . Don Jones, ex-San Francisco and Kansas City sports writer, tips that the Fort Riley (Kans.) team is one to watch if they ever get around to decoding the army grid code.

CONFUSION CORNER

A golf tournament at the Meadow Brook club the other day was won by ex-polo player Lieutenant John R. Fell of the navy and ex-ball player Sammy Byrd. . . . Runners-up were P. Hal Sims, the bridge expert, and Don Grant, a racquet specialist. . . . The field included polosists Pete Bostwick (also a steeplechase jockey) Devereux Milburn Jr., Stew Iglehart and Bob Gerry, and Howell Van Gerbig, who used to play football and hockey.

MENTOR SEES GLOOMY SIDE

"We've got to improve plenty for that Farmerville game Friday night," Coach Percy Brown of the Neville Tigers said after practice yesterday afternoon. He remarked, however, that the ball club showed some improvement over Monday's sluggish session.

The boys appear in good shape, and it is expected Neville will be at full strength for the tussle with the underdog Farmerville team. The opening kickoff is slated for 8 p. m. at Neville stadium.

Coach Brown put his charges through two days of rough work. Yesterday it was a long scrimmage with emphasis laid on blocking and tackling.

The Tiger mentor expects to hold another rough session today in order to drill the boys in fundamentals before tapering off Thursday for Friday's contest. It will be a long signal drill today and brushing up on plays for the Bengals.

A new federal tax which became effective October 1 will result in an alteration of admission prices. The 10 per cent tax included, admission Friday night will be 28 cents for students, 22 cents for soldiers, and 55 cents for adults. Complimentary and season tickets require a 5 cent tax on each ducat.

OUACHITA WILL PLAY CONTEST HERE SATURDAY

Date Of Game Is Shifted At Request Of Magnolia, Avants Says

The Ouachita Parish High school Lions, who are hard at work in preparation for their tilt with the Magnolia, Ark., eleven, will meet the Arkansans here on Saturday night instead of Thursday night, it was announced last night by Coach Mack Avants. The shift in dates was made at the request of Magnolia school officials who, it was announced, stated they did not want the squad to miss two days of school.

The Lions will undergo another stiff scrimmage session today. Coach Avants announced that, among other possible changes in the Ouachita lineup, Hoyt Monerief will be shifted from fullback to quarterback and J. M. McBeth, a former substitute halfback, will be sent to the fullback slot.

One of the biggest problems facing Coach Avants in his efforts to build the Ouachita machine was cleared up this week as the Lions prepared to enter their fifth conflict of the season.

Because the opening of school was delayed for army maneuvers and the fact that Ouachita depends to a great extent upon outlying communities of the parish for its talent, Coach Avants had a difficult time getting his material together for workouts. Many prospective players also held jobs which they stayed with until the opening of school Monday.

Throughout the pre-school practice period, Coach Avants had to be content with working his charges in separate drills—morning sessions for those unable to be on hand in the afternoon and vice versa.

This week, for the first time in over a month, Coach Avants is getting his boys all out for work at the same time and teamwork is expected to improve proportionately.

The Lions, after dropping three hard fought games, broke into the win column last week with an upset victory over the Smackover Buckaroos, an Arkansas eleven that went undefeated last season, and this week the O. P. H. S. forces go into action for the first time as the favored team.

Two players injured in the Smackover game will be able to play Saturday night. Tackle Sam McInnis, back in the lineup last week after a short illness, suffered a back injury but he worked out yesterday. Guard Charles Cain, who suffered a gash under an eye, also is expected to be able to play. Rudy Eason has been handling McInnis' chores, and Clifton O'Neal, starting guard last week, may start again in place of Cain.

The Lions this week have held two hard scrimmage sessions both offensively and defensively but have missed work against Magnolia plays as the Arkansas team has not been scouted and the locals have no idea what Magnolia will use.

PREDICT DUEL BETWEEN BACKS

Tailbacks Are Key Men In Maroon And Louisiana State Systems

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 8.—(AP)—A spectacular duel of tailbacks might develop here Saturday night when Mississippi State comes to seek its third straight football victory over Louisiana State.

Both teams rely principally on single-wing systems in which triple-threat, signal-calling tailbacks are the key offensive men, and both are well fortified at that position.

Mississippi State, after losing its great Harvey Johnson and Billy Jefferson, has come back with a trio that threatens to make the Maroons' supporters cease all their mourning over graduation of the J-boys.

First there is Sonny Bruce, senior and ace punter. Bruce's kicks against Florida averaged 50 yards. Against Alabama he kicked four times for a total of 157 yards—but three of the boots were in 'Bama territory. One went out on the eight-yard line, and one went over the goal line at the very corner of the field.

Second, there is Blondy Black, junior converted from wingback, as sweet a runner as you want to see. His 45-yard punt return beat Florida 6-0. It came a few pays after he ran the ball 38 yards out from behind his own goal line. The Alabama boys ganged him, but he still gained something like 50 yards on them and made one touchdown.

Thert there is Billy Murphy, sophomore whose passes, along with Bruce's kicking, beat Alabama. His 24-yard heave to Bob Patterson scored the first touchdown. He completed three out of five against the Crimson Tide, and the receiver dropped another.

Louisiana State has five available tailbacks: Leo Bird, whose passes have won many a game in the past two seasons; Billy McKinney, another veteran who has improved enough to grab the usual starting assignment; Adrain Dodson, who carried most of the offensive burden last season, and the sensational sophomores, Sulcer Harris and Joe Giacone.

Mississippi State is heavy favorite because of its victory over Alabama while L. S. U. was drubbed by Texas. But good Mississippi State teams have had plenty of trouble with mediocre L. S. U. teams the last two years. Bernie Moore's teams can always come back—and any one of his five tailbacks might strike suddenly from anywhere at any time.

HONEST

The honesty of the British public is well known in the British Museum, which reports that it is a very rare occurrence to lose a book.

Win Or Lose, Notre Dame To Find Favor At Orleans

Leahy Likely To Prove Receptive To Sugar Bowl Invitation

By Mortimer Kreeger

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 8.—(AP)—October is a little early to think too seriously about bowl games, but the Sugar Bowl fathers have their eyes on an unusually rich assortment of possible selections — including Notre Dame.

Santa Clara, Nebraska, Duke, Fordham, Texas, Mississippi State, Tulane and Marquette are other early-season possibilities.

Notre Dame, the country's No. 1 name team, whether it wins all its games or loses half of them, hasn't played a post-season tilt since the four horsemen closed their careers by beating Stanford 27-10 in the Rose Bowl, Jan. 1, 1925.

Since then the idea of a "bowl" has been unthinkable at South Bend.

But . . . .

This year Frank Leahy became coach of the Fighting Irish, and he likes bowl games. He took his Boston College Eagles to the Cotton Bowl two years ago and brought them here to whip Tennessee last New Year's day.

The warmth with which New Orleans and the Sugar Bowlers entertained and praised the Eagles, and Leahy in particular, set up a cordial feeling that should make Leahy eternally friendly to the local crowd, and Notre Dame in the Sugar Bowl is a dream dear to the heart of many a bowl sponsor.

The opponent could be Tulane, winner of one Sugar Bowl tilt and loser of another, if the wave keeps on rolling.

Duke and Texas might prefer the Rose Bowl, with its glamor, antiquity, 20,000 more cash customers and nearby movie studios. But only one can go.

Santa Clara, twice a winner in the Sugar Bowl, lost last season only to Stanford, 7-6. The Bronchos are reported to have a better club this year. They don't belong to the Pacific Coast Conference, the champion of which plays in the Rose Bowl and invites an opponent—but they meet four conference members—California, Stanford, Oregon and U. C. L. A.

Victories over those four would establish Santa Clara as probably the best team of the far west—and the Sugar Bowlers would be simply delighted to have the unofficial champions of the Pacific coast here.

Nebraska's Biff Jones, former Louisiana State coach, helped put up cash to guarantee the Sugar Bowl in its early years. Sooner or later a Mississippi team will play in the bowl—and since Mississippi State looks unstoppable for the rest of its schedule, this might be the year.

A strong eastern team is always welcome, with the prestige and publicity it brings. And Fordham appears one of the best of the east. Marquette is more of a dark horse.

But after all, it's only October . . .

CHURNIN' CHARLIE SEEMS QUITE A GUY

CLEMSON, S. C., Oct. 8.—(AP)—It'll pay those Bostonians to keep their eagle eyes on Churnin' Charlie come Saturday.

Churnin' Charlie (the last name's Timmons), folks in these here mountains will tell you, is a 204-pound bruiser from Hartwell, Ga., who's been mighty hard on the opponents of Clemson college's Southern conference football champs.

Maybe the older of Boston's Eagles can remember Charlie—if they harken back to the 1940 Cotton Bowl. Coach Jess Neely, new at Rice, shoved Charlie into that tight game. And young Timmons then and there endeared himself for life with all staunch Tiger supporters by punching the Bengals to a victory.

Since then Charlie has done yeoman service for the Tigers and this year as a senior he's hit his pulverizing stride.

Against Virginia Military institute, not the weakest of the conference members, Timmons netted 71 yards from rushing and against North Carolina State college, another loop brother, Churnin' Charlie reeled off 90 yards—more than three times that of the whole State outfit.

Tiger supporters who've been putting cold cash on the line for that kind of football for years figure that if the Clemsons get through that Boston game unscathed "we're bowl bound." That despite upcoming games with South Carolina, Wake Forest, Auburn, George Washington, and Furman. The Tigers have rolled up 104 points in three games. And Churnin' Charlie has set up almost every tally.

Gridiron Briefs

TULANE

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Tulane will be at full strength for their battle with Rice at Houston Saturday, with Harley McCollum, Lawrence Rice and Bubber Ely, all first stringers, ready for action.

The Greenies Tuesday practiced against spinner plays which their scouts said Rice used considerably last Saturday and which the Owls are expected to use again against Tulane.

MISSISSIPPI STATE

STARKVILLE, Miss., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Eilly Murphy's passing highlighted the Mississippi State Maroons' workout Tuesday as they prepared for Saturday night's game with Louisiana State.

Fullbacks Brick Mason and Hillard Thorpe waged a battle with Charles Yancey for first string fullback, Coach Allyn McKeen drilled his squad on offensive tactics.

OLE MISS

OXFORD, Miss., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Concentrating on Georgia plays, Coach Harry Mehre put his Mississippi university Rebels through a stiff workout under a hot sun Tuesday.

Mehre emphasized defense against passing attacks which are expected to be the deciding factor Friday night. Pep Bennett, only veteran quarter, will not see service against the Bulldogs, Mehre said, unless he can move in scrimmage tomorrow. Bennett suffered a side injury when the Rebels lost to Georgetown in the first game of the season.

RICE

HOUSTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Rice Institute's Owls worked in the rain and ankle-deep mud Tuesday at Rice field, drilling on their offensive assignments for their clash against the awesome Tulane Greenies Saturday afternoon here.

Plenty of running and a dummy scrimmage made up most of the workout.

Head Coach Jess Neely said that, as far as he was concerned, sophomore Backs Willie Smelley of Lufkin and Horton Roberts of McAllen had quit school.

Shelley and Roberts are working for an oil field equipment company. They did not appear for drills Monday nor Tuesday.

Neely said he planned rough scrimmage for Wednesday. He said that Weldon Humble, sophomore guard, and Barton Ellis, junior wingback, would be ready Saturday. Humble suffered an ear injury in last week's victory over Sam Houston and Ellis came out of Monday's workout with a cut lip.

L. S. U.

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Louisiana State's football squad reviewed blocking and tackling fundamentals in a long drill Tuesday for Mississippi State before negotiating a hard scrimmage.

Attempting to correct a number of faults shown up in L. S. U.'s loss to Texas, Coach Bernie Moore shuffled up his starting lineup looking toward a more effective combination.

Major shifts included placing Carol Jones, 180-pound junior, at wingback on the first team. The Ruston, La., back had been on the fourth team. Other first team changes had Sonny Richardson at fullback, Francis Zick at tackle, Jack Fulkerson at end, and Bill Hogan at blocking back.

KENTUCKY

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 8.—(AP)—For the first time this season the Kentucky Wildcats worked out behind closed gates—barring even the newspaper men.

However, this much is known: In spring practice, the Kentucky squad worked to precision a shift that it has not used this season. Kirwan hinted then that Kentucky might use the shift this fall, but not until "a major game."

And Vanderbilt's meeting with the Wildcats Saturday on the field here surely can be classified as a "major game."

GEORGIA

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 8.—(AP)—If Frankie Sinkwich, Georgia's sensational halfback, gets into the Mississippi game at all Friday night, it will be for a few crucial plays only.

His broken jawbone wired tight, the Bulldog ace is weak after three days on a liquid diet and hasn't yet accustomed himself to breathing through tightly-clinched teeth.

The Bulldog squad drilled on defense in the rain Tuesday, and Coach Wallace Butts emphasized the play of Big Jim Todd and Captain Heyward Allen, his only other tailbacks.

AUBURN

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Coach Jack Meagher devoted a good part of the Auburn football practice Tuesday to an effort to fill the injured Nick Ardillo's place at guard.

Meagher tried out Jack Ferrell and Vic Costellos, juniors, and Jack Cornelius, a sophomore, as replacements for Ardillo, who was hurt in the Tulane game last Saturday and will be out for at least a week.

Clarence Harkins, starting left halfback, also was hurt in the Tulane game and may not get to play against Louisiana Tech Saturday or Southern Methodist the following week.

VANDERBILT

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Coach Red Sanders took a look at the Tennessee Tech-Vanderbilt game pictures Tuesday and decided line blocking in the Saturday tilt was terrible.

The Commodores, in preparation for Kentucky's Wildcats this Saturday in Lexington, were put through a line blocking drill and Mac Peebles, regular tackle, came up with a knee injury.

ALABAMA

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 8.—(AP)—The Alabama football team, already crippled with injuries from the Mississippi State game last Saturday, suffered another setback Tuesday when Herman Beard, rugged sophomore fullback, injured a knee in a varsity scrimmage with the freshmen.

Coach Frank Thomas said it was doubtful if Beard or Paul Spencer, starting fullback, would be able to play against Howard College Saturday. Another doubtful starter is Noah Langdale, only letterman tackle.

FLORIDA

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Florida's Gators settled down Tuesday to serious preparation for an important intersectional game with the Villanova Wildcats here Saturday night.

Coach Tom Lieb continued to drill his players on new plays that were held back during Florida's 46 to 6 victory over Tampa last Saturday.

TENNESSEE

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 8.—(AP)—With Johnny Butler and Bobby Cifers both on the sidelines with injuries received in the Duke game, Sophomore Walt Slater occupied the Tennessee tailback slot Tuesday as the Vols practiced defense against Dayton university plays and went through a stiff dummy scrimmage drill.

Cifers is nursing a lame ankle, while Butler is suffering a shoulder injury. Coaches, however, expected the former to round into shape quickly.

RING FIASCOS ARE DENOUNCED BY COMMISSION

Jenkins' Purse Is Held And Handlers Of Lou Nova Reprimanded

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP)—In a series of drastic actions, the New York state athletic commission Tuesday took steps to avoid such fight fiascos as the Freddie Cochrane-Lew Jenkins shindig in the Garden Monday night and frowned heavily on the actions of Lou Nova's handlers in the heavyweight title bout with Joe Louis last week.

Lew Jenkins

Promoter Mike Jacobs was instructed to hold up Jenkins' purse amounting to approximately $7,000, as the result of his poor showing against the welterweight titleholder. Jenkins, showing little of the punching ability that carried him to the top of the 135 pounders in this state, was knocked down five times by Cochrane and finally dropped the 10-round decision in a dull fight.

At the same time, the commission ordered Jenkins and his Texas manager, Fred Browning, immediately to post a $1,500 forfeit for Lew's title fight here October 31 with Sammy Angott, the N. B. A. recognized champion. Commissioner Bill Brown also made it clear that hereafter Jenkins would do his training in New York when he is fighting here.

No action was taken against Cochrane but his manager, Willie Gilsenberg of Newark was suspended for six months for instructing the welter king to hold back in the early rounds. Ray Carlen, manager of Nova, was given the same suspension and Lou's trainer, Ray Arcel, 60 days, for doing the same thing in the Louis fight. Carlen and Arcel also were reprimanded for failure to obey the referee's warning regarding the use of grease on Nova.

John J. Phelan, chairman of the commission, said the actions of Carlen, Arcel and Gilsenberg were "not fair to the public" in explaining the suspensions.

A new rule, passed Tuesday, will prevent two champions from meeting in New York in the future unless one of the titles is at stake. The contracts must state clearly which title is at stake, the champion whose crown is not on the block must relinquish his rulership and the fight must be over the championship route of 15 rounds.

Answering Jenkins' statement that he was not in the best of shape and that he still was ailing from injuries received in a motorcycle accident three weeks ago, the commission called in three of its doctors. They found Jenkins to be suffering from a bruised rib, suffered in Tuesday night's fight, but otherwise in good physical condition.

FERRIDAY TO MEET MEADVILLE AGGIES

FERRIDAY, La., Oct. 8.—(Special)—Workouts are being held at the practice field of the Ferriday High school every afternoon in anticipation of the week-end contest here on Friday night at Fisher field between Coach Charlie Loomis' Ferriday High school Bulldogs and the Franklin County Aggies of Meadville, Miss.

The Bulldogs, fresh from a smashing 40 to 0 rout of the Catholic High school Green Wave of Natchez, Miss., coached by their former gridiron mentor, Coach Billy Priester, have won four games in four starts. They won 53 to 0 over Clarks in the opening tilt of the season, beat Winnfield's Class "A" eleven 26 to 0 and won by forfeit from Olla.

Thus far this season no team has crossed the goal-line of the Bulldogs while they were running up 119 points against the opposition. Practically all of the touchdowns have been scored by the fleet backs Austin Wilson, fullback and Pinky Williams, quarterback, but several of the second stringers have crossed the goals of the opposition. The combination of Williams and Wilson, both triple threat players, has been potent and Coach Loomis is depending on them and on the powerful line of the Canines to win all of their remaining games.

TRIBE TAKES LONG WORKOUT

Second Team Shows Good Defensive Play In Hard Scrimmage

Northeast Junior college's second stringers outplayed the No. 1 team in defensive work yesterday afternoon, Coach Jim Malone remarked after "the hardest and longest scrimmage we have had so far this year."

The Indians will rest this week-end but will take on Henderson State Teachers here Saturday, October 18.

Coach Malone said after yesterday's scrimmage that he was not at all pleased with the blocking of the first string, but the No. 2 team turned in the best defensive play "that I've seen this year."

The stalwarts he was thinking of while making the above statement were Bill Edgar, freshman guard, a local boy and graduate of Ouachita Parish High: Afton Cox, tackle; Lamar Bakenhus, end; James Rhodes, end; Willie Perkins, tackle, and "Sandy" Sands.

A regular game between the first and second teams will be held Thursday afternoon, and the latter will run through the plays of Henderson's Reddies of Arkadelphia, Ark., next foe of the Indians.

"Henderson State Teachers always give us a tough fight, and we can expect another hard game from them this year," the Indian mentor said, adding that last year's contest which the local boys won 20-18 was one of the most thrilling games of the year.

"But we've got to look a lot better, if we expect to get anywhere against Henderson," Coach Malone remarked. Basil Fain, first string fullback from Tupelo, Miss., who has been injured all year went "great guns" in yesterday's session, and his return will boost both the Indians' offensive and defensive play.

DUTCH SCHULTZ BEATS CURTIS

Subdues Opponent In Rough Match; Hayamaka Defeats Parker

Fans at the Monroe Wrestling arena last night were treated to two wild bouts as Dutch Schultz decisioned Jack Curtis in the main event and Sugi Hayamaka overpowered Allen Parker in the semi-final match. The rousing finish to each match had the fans in a frenzy and there were several impromptu battles staged in which several of the enthusiasts entered.

The main event started rough, with Schultz, the Milwaukee villain, putting the works to Curtis, who hails from Vicksburg and is supposed to be as tame as the baseball team which the Mississippi town entered in the Cotton States legaue during the past campaign.

However, the Hill City entry won the first fall in 15 minutes with a series of drop kicks, and that apparently didn't set well with Schultz—although he sat pretty firmly on the canvas after each kick. Schultz came right back with a whirlwind attack to cop the second fall in 13 minutes with an inside toe hold after battering Curtis with gusto—and gusto isn't the name for a ring post, either.

But the real fireworks were reserved for the third stanza. It started out as a knock-down, drag-out affair, and ended on the same theme. Early in the fall, Schultz knocked Curtis out of the ring. That apparently stirred some fire into the Vicksburger and he crawled back with vengeance in his eye. He literally stomped the Wisconsin meanie into the canvas, but after four minutes of the rough stuff, Schultz recovered, socked Curtis a couple of times and covered him to win the fall and the match. When it was over, several fans expressed a desire to mix it with the villain, but it was all talk and no action.

Hayamaka won the first fall of his match with Parker in 28 minutes with a body crouch; Parker took the second with a series of body slams and a cover in seven minutes, and the Honolulu Jap came back to cop the decision in the third heat with a combination arm and head lock in two minutes. Gus Kallio, who refereed the opener in the absence of "Butch" Martin, was belted a couple of times by Parker as the crowd roared, but Kallio quickly subdued the Nashville, Tenn., grappler and no further damage was done.

CHISOX BEAT CUBS FOR 4TH STRAIGHT

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The American league White Sox defeated the National league Cubs, 3 to 1, Tuesday night to retain the Chicago city championship they have held since 1931. The Sox won the series in four straight victories.

Thornton Lee closed the feud by holding the Cubs to but four hits while the Sox took advantage of six hits off Claude Passeau and five Cub errors.

The contest, witnessed by 19,955, was without earned runs. The Sox counted two runs in the second inning on two boots by Lou Stringer, a double by Mike Kreevich and a passed ball. An error by Stanley Hack paved the way to the third Sox run in the seventh.

The only Cub run was scored in the second inning on a single by Babe Dahlgren, and two errors by Bob Kennedy.

Stidham's Happy . . . Anderson's Sad . . . Tennessee Lost . . . Ain't That Too Bad . . .

By Whitney Martin

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(The News-Star—World Special News Service)—The Old Professor was in a jovial mood as his class of football coaches assembled for the first fall meeting. He fairly beamed as he looked over the pupils and idly polished his glasses.

"Just like the Yankees polished off the Dodgers," he chuckled at his own little joke. "Understand, I was strictly neutral, strict--ly neutral. I didn't care who won. How could dem Bu--er, those itinerants think they could beat our Yankees, anyway?

"Well, we're a day late getting started on account of I was attending the series, so we'd better get busy. Tom Stidham, will you quit grinning all over the place. I know you feel good, but just because you walloped Wisconsin doesn't mean that everyone feels good. Look at Eddie Anderson there."

Eddie Anderson, Iowa—Sure, we're downcast even though we made it a good game against Michigan. We didn't win it, did we? But this is the making of our club and we'll be rolling from now on. Michigan has two fine backs in Bob Westfall and Tom Kuzma, but I'll still take Bill Green.

Fritz Crisler, Michigan—I'm sure glad to get past that one. Iowa is tough and may have a great deal to say about who wins the Big Ten title. That Bill Green is good enough for anybody's team.

Old Professor—Green seems to be a pretty snappy color this fall. Mr. Brown, anything to say in your defense?

Paul Brown, Ohio Sate—No, sir. We just had a hot day against the Trojans when everything we did turned to gold. They were crippled and maybe they thought they could win without much effort.

Sam Barry, U. S. C.—Ohio State has a smooth team with lots of power, but I don't think we're as bad as the score indicates. We'll improve.

Old Professor—I believe you. Mr. Wade, what's cookin'.

Wallace Wade, Duke—My team, I guess. The heat, and the breaks, helped us beat Tennessee. And also alertness.

John Barnhill, Tennessee—We just didn't have a team like Duke. If we'd been on our toes the score might have been closer. We blocked enough punts to have done it.

Old Professor—Might have won by several blocks, eh? Mr. Snavely, will you please quit arguing with Mr. Solem and pay attention.

Carl Snavely, Cornell—I'm just telling him that no matter what he says, that center he has lining up with his tail toward the defending team is offside. The rules say the center's head and hands may be over the ball, not his tail and hands. Cornell was the most unseasoned team I've ever seen before a game, but it surprised me. I'm proud of the boys.

Ossie Solem, Syracuse—My center was okay. The forward end of the ball is the one that counts when the teams are lined up. I'll stick to it. That Snavely, he said he had nothing but he showed up with a great defensive club.

Old Professor—Heads or tails. I guess we'll have to flip the center to find out which is right. Mr. Bible, you look pleased.

Dana Bible, Texas—Yes sir, I am glad to find that new substitution rule in no way slowed up our game with Louisiana State. I liked Pete Layden's fast getaway.

Bernie Moore, L. S. U.—You can quote me: That Layden is one of the best backs I have ever seen.

Old Professor—Well, we've got Green and Layden now. We're getting together a pretty good backfield. Mr. Allison, you have troubles?

Stub Allison, California—Yes sir, and we know them now and will do much better in the future. Washington State is stronger this year, and deserved to win.

Babe Hollingsberry, Washington State—Our boys fought their heads off. It was a case of outfighting and outplaying a fine ball club.

Old Professor—I'm sorry, gentlemen. Our time is up. What's that, Mr. Stidham? You'd like to play the Yankees? Now what chance would . . . I'm strictly neutral, understand. But how could anybody beat those Yankees? Good day, gentlemen.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Stocks mixed; price changes narrow. Bonds uneven; selected rails advance. Foreign exchange quiet; generally unchanged. Cotton lower, selling prompted by bearish government crop report. Sugar quiet; trade covering; liquidation. Metals steady; OPM to prevent hoarding of copper. Wool tops higher; trade buying.

CHICAGO: Wheat higher, short covering; marketing control may be continued. Corn higher; lend-lease food expenditures to affect livestock feed. Hogs slow; 15-25 off; top $11.20. Cattle supply excessive; steady to 15 off.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Stock market prices slipped into a narrow groove today, following Tuesday's show of jitters as a result of the Russo-German war news.

At the finish quotations mostly ranged in fractions either way from the previous close, with movements mixed even within the various categories.

Air line stocks got a play at times, and a scattering of industrial issues made progress occasionally, but generally speaking, the balance was delicate, and neither gains or losses were always consistent throughout the session.

The trading pace was ample, and transactions approximated 500,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Traders moved so cautiously in the stock market today that the pace slowed to a walk and group movements were indiscernible.

In early afternoon the market's nervousness over German progress in Russia, which made for a decline Tuesday, appeared to have passed and the list was mixed.

Commodities were backward. Bonds showed plenty of leaders on either side of the price fence.

Followers of steel shares took note of the somber tone of "Iron Age's" weekly review, which pointed to production-limiting factors which, for the moment, appeared to overshadow the recently ordered expansion in mill capacity.

These included labor difficulties, shortages in iron and steel scrap and other materials and priorities curtailments and shutdowns.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—(AP)—After an early decline had carried prices of wheat and other grains and soybeans to the lowest levels for the past several weeks, the market reversed its early downward trend today and all commodities rallied. Grains erased losses and substituted fractional net gains.

Wheat closed 1-2 to 7-8 cent higher than yesterday, December $1.20 3-4 to 7-8, May $1.25 1-2 to 5-8, corn 3-8 to 7-8 up, December 79 to 79 1-8, May 84 3-4; oats 3-8 to 7-8 higher; soybeans 1 1-8 lower to 5-8 higher and rye 1-4 to 1-2 up.

U. S. BIGGEST INSURANCE MAN

Applications Received For $2,077,416,000 Worth Of Surety

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Uncle Sam became the nation's biggest insurance salesman during the past year.

President Roosevelt signed the national service life insurance act a year ago today, and latest figures of the veterans' administration show that 610,000 applications for $2,077,416,000 worth of insurance have been received from men in the new army and navy.

Up to the start of this week, Uncle Sam's new insurance customers had paid in $7,381,365.02 in premiums and only 419 claims had been filed.

The new service insurance succeeds the insurance program set up for World War soldiers. While the old insurance continues in force, new applications are accepted only under the new program.

The insurance is optional, with amounts available from $1,000 to $10,000. Premiums, which are deducted from soldiers' and sailors' pay, range from 63 cents monthly for each $1,000 insurance for service men 15 years of age to $9.45 for those 75 years old. A 21-year-old selectee pays 65 cents a month for a $1,000 policy, a 35-year-old 76 cents.

The insurance is written for a 5-year term, but before the end of the term it may be converted into one of three plans—ordinary life, 20-payment life or 30-payment life.

The government's total of insurance in force is only a small fraction of that sold by private companies, although no one company had piled up its business so rapidly. The monopoly committee reported that in 1938, private companies had around $111,000,000,000 of insurance in force.

11,061,000 COTTON BALES FORECAST FOR THIS YEAR

Increase Shown Over Previous Estimate; 64 Per Cent Normal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The agriculture department estimated today that this year's cotton crop is 11,061,000 bales of 500 pound gross weight, based on the October 1 condition which was 64 per cent of a normal.

The department reported the indicated yield of lint cotton to be 234.2 pounds to the acre and the area for harvest, 22,633,000 acres.

A month ago 10,710,000 bales were forecast on the basis of the September 1 condition of 65 per cent of a normal, which indicated a yield of 226.8 pounds to the acre.

Production was 12,566,000 bales last year, when the October 1 condition was 72 per cent of a normal, the acre yield 252.5 pounds, and the area harvested 23,861,000 acres.

Average cotton production over the ten years, 1930-39, was 13,246,000 bales, the October 1 average crop condition 64 per cent of a normal; the acre yield 265.4 pounds, and the average area harvested, 31,122,000 acres.

The census bureau reported that cotton of this year's growth ginned to October 1 totaled 4,713,227 running bales, counting 314 round bales as half bales and excluding linters, compared with 3,923,172 running bales, including 1,071 round bales, a year ago, and 6,682,066 running bales, including 101,179 round bales, two years ago.

Details of the agriculture department's estimates, by states, showing the acreage remaining for harvest, the October 1 condition, the indicated acre yield and the indicated production, follow:

Missouri, acreage 402,000, condition 84 per cent of a normal; indicated acre yield 517 pounds, and indicated production 435,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight; Virginia 34,000; 79; 324 and 23,000; North Carolina 782,000; 73; 324 and 530,000, South Carolina 1,185,000; 39; 162 and 400,000; Georgia 1,863,000; 50; 160 and 624,000; Florida 66,000; 55; 189 and 15,000; Tennessee 689,000; 83; 382 and 550,000; Alabama 1,339,000; 63; 212 and 815,000; Mississippi 2,406,000; 65; 299 and 1,500,000; Arkansas 2,038,000; 74; 355 and 1,510,000.

Louisiana 1,052,000; 45; 153 and 335,000, Oklahoma 1,625,000; 72; 209 and 710,000; Texas 7,922,000; 64; 170 and 2,800,000; New Mexico 118,000; 79; 467 and 115,000; Arizona 239,000; 83; 421 and 210,000; California 352,000; 82; 639 and 470,000; all other states 20,000; 83; 451 and 19,000; Lower California (Old Mexico) 179,000; 98; 246 and 92,000 (Lower California not included in California figures, nor in United States total.)

The census bureau's ginning report showed the following quantity ginned, by states, to October 1, with comparative figures for ginnings to that date a year ago, as follows:

Alabama 484,632 running bales and 260,872 a year ago; Arizona 35,632 and 29,758; Arkansas 729,856 and 252,486; California 5,337 and 72,100; Florida 12,583 and 14,646; Georgia 403,838 and 507,252; Louisiana 208,332 and 208,293; Mississippi 863,574 and 289,272; Missouri 267,299 and 51,776; New Mexico 2,780 and 12,652; North Carolina 218,710 and 197,140; Oklahoma 140,408 and 114,770; South Carolina 210,330 and 403,011; Tennessee 304,504 and 25,700; Texas 809,609 and 1,480,326; Virginia 4,672 and 2,029; all other states 11,043 and 1,089.
